BATTERY B READY IN NEWTON

Will Probably Be First Unit in New National Guard; Conference on Recruiting

Battery B, the Newton outfit of the new 101st Field Artillery Regiment, will probably achieve the distinction of being the first unit ready to be formally inducted into the new Massachusetts National Guard.

Adjutant-General Stevens today was notified that the battery is nearly recruited to its full strength and will soon be ready for inspection by the Federal officers. Captain Richard T. Roquemore is the commander.

Officers of the Massachusetts State Guard, called to a conference with Adjutant-General Stevens today, were given instructions for the campaign of recruiting the new National Guard. The State Guard will gradually disappear as the new National Guard is organized, and the officers were advised to encourage the enlistment of their men in the new units.

The calling of this conference is believed by General Stevens to be the cause of the report that plans were being made to mobilize the State Guard for service in the railroad strike. General Stevens said that mobilization was farthest from the thought of the conferees.

Governor Coolidge today announced the appointment of these additional officers of the new National Guard:

Lieutenant-Colonels — Thomas F. Brown of Boston, ordnance department; Thomas L. Jenkins of Topsfield, medical department; William J. Greene of Boston, judge-advocate-general's department; Erland F. Fish of Brookline, 101st Field Artillery; Thomas F. Foley of Worcester, 101st Infantry; as lieutenant-colonel of the Coast Artillery, George M. King of Hyde Park.

Captains—Daniel Needham of Boston, Clifford F. Farrington of Cambridge and Charles L. Parker of Milton, recruiting officers, 101st Field Artillery; Albert L. Kendall of Framingham, First Corps Defence.

Captains in 102d Field Artillery—Winfred C. MacIntyre of Lowell, Battery B; Roland H. Choate of Swampscott, Supply Company; William B. Higgins of Andover, Headquarters Company; John Simpkins of Boston, adjutant; William F. Howe, Jr., of Dorchester, Battery C.

Baker Estate in Lenox Offered to Wilson

Washington, April 13.—President Wilson has been offered the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond T. Baker, director of the mint, at Lenox, Mass., for his Summer vacation, and this offer is under consideration. The Baker estate, formerly the Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt estate, is a large one and considered sufficiently quiet.

Someone remarked to the Governor today that President Wilson gave up Woods Hole because it was too noisy.

DISCHARGE 500 AT NAVY YARD

Shipping Board Orders Work on Steamship George Washington Stopped

Orders were received at the Charlestown Navy Yard today to stop work on the Shipping Board steamship George Washington, which has been in drydock there for ten days. No reason was given for discontinuing the refitting and renovation of the big liner which carried President Wilson and his party to the peace conference.

Five hundred of the men employed in repairing the ship were dismissed immediately on receipt of the order and an additional 500 will be relieved as soon as the work on which they are employed is completed.

Assignment of the George Washington to the Charlestown yard was hailed with delight by the workers there as meaning steady employment for many weeks, and they did not conceal their disappointment when informed of the Shipping Board's order.

Bare-Legged Chorus Girls Are Barred

No longer will the bald-headed row applaud while bare-legged chorus girls shimmy and cavort. Mayor Peters has spoken and his word is law. Today he announced the new theatre regulations, which have been accepted by the Association of Theatre Managers.

In the new order, these features of the "girly-girly" shows are taboo:

One-piece bathing suits and underwear.

Profanity.

Chorus girls mingling with the audience or sitting in boxes.

"Muscle" dances.

"Dope fiend" portrayals.

Songs and dialogue with a double meaning.

But there is a "joker" in the order, which reads: "No bare-legged dancing will be allowed unless sanctioned by Mayor Peters or City Censor John A. Casey."

FINE WOMAN $100 FOR FOR SALE OF LIQUOR

Mary A. Tennyson, who conducts a lodging house on Warren street, appeared in the Roxbury Court today, charged with the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquor, as the result of a raid made by Special Officers Gillis and Higgins. Found guilty and fined $100, she appealed. William Burke and John E. Cannon, arrested in the house at the time of the raid, were found guilty of being present where narcotic drugs were found. They were fined $25 each and appealed.

SHORTAGE OF FOOD FEARED

New England Industries Face Shutdown, Due to Coal Scarcity

Boston and New England today faced total paralysis of railroad transportation through a threatened shortage of coal and have already begun to feel the pinch of food supplies as a result of the spread of the so-called "outlaw" railroad strike.

Officials of the New Haven railroad admitted today that their coal situation was so serious that should the strike last much longer the road would have to practically shut down.

With their western gateways practically tied up, with scarcely a freight car coming into New England through Mechanicville, Mayerook, Albany, the Harlem River and other western gateways, local railroads admitted today the local situation was serious.

New complications were promised the New Haven with a meeting of the "white collar" men scheduled at the United States Hotel. The governing board of the clerks representing thousands of men, voted whether they would remain at work or join the outlaws.

The New Haven clerks are demanding an increase of 23 cents an hour. They now receive an average of $23 per week. They voted today

REFUSE REQUEST BY COOLIDGE

House Committee Turns Down Message Asking $150,000 for Pilgrim Celebration

Governor Coolidge's special message asking for an additional $150,000 for celebration of the 300th anniversary of the Landing of the Pilgrims today was turned down by the House Ways and Means Committee.

"No legislation necessary" was the report made by the committee.

About $600,000 is expected to be available from State and Federal government appropriations and in addition many large public bequests have been received.

Governor Coolidge said in his message that an extra $150,000 by the State doubtlessly would be followed by an additional similar amount from the national treasury.

Strike Bulletins

WASHINGTON—The Department of Labor today informed the Cleveland Yardmen's Association, which had asked for the service of a mediator in the railroad strike, that jurisdiction in this matter is vested in the United States Board of Mediation and Conciliation.

CLEVELAND — Two hundred shopmen and between 40 and 50 car inspectors employed at the Collinwood yards of the New York Central Railroad went on strike today. Three hundred more men from the New York Central shops, and 1,500 from the shops of the six other roads, plan to walk out.

ALBANY—Charges that radicals, who are said to have intrenched themselves in labor organizations, are soon to institute a general strike, ultimately bringing about a "revolution," were made in the State Senate today by Senator Clayton R. Lusk.

LOS ANGELES—Between 6,000 and 7,000 railroad workers, comprising engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen, switchmen and yardmen, went out on strike here today. Railroad terminals here today are "dead." Not a wheel turned, save for passenger traffic.

GENERAL STRIKE IN DUBLIN

Protest Against Mountjoy Prison Methods Paralyzes Business

London, April 13.—The British government will not interfere in behalf of the hunger-striking Sinn Fein prisoners in Mountjoy Jail, A. Bonar Law announced in Commons this afternoon in response to a protest by John R. Clynes. Mr. Law said the matter was entirely in the hands of the Irish officials and that "so long as there is crime in Ireland there will be arrests."

By International News Service.

Dublin, April 13.—A general strike went into effect here today, as a protest against the treatment of Irish prisoners in the Mountjoy Jail. Not a wheel has been turning since midnight, and the factories were unable to resume operations this morning because the workers failed to show up.

Even the government departments were affected as the strike spread to the clerks. The mails were held up as train service was paralyzed.

A number of ships were unable to leave their piers.

A feature of the movement was a

THOUSANDS JOIN STRIKE HOURLY

Washington, April 13.—Additional police officers were placed on duty about the White House today, and secret operatives were also unusually active. The White House refused to make any statement as to the reason for additional guard. It was learned, however, that advices had been received that agitators were on their way to Washington and precautionary measures followed.

Important developments today in the strike of rebel railway workers were:

1—President Wilson calls a meeting of his cabinet tomorrow, the first since his illness, to cope with the emergency.

2—Long-awaited Railroad Labor Board is appointed by the President and will immediately begin investigation of the strike.

3—Arrest of "outlaw" strike leaders is foreseen in effort of Attorney-General Palmer to secure the names of such leaders.

4—Strike spreads with fresh thousands joining hourly. All crafts represented among men who break away from union chiefs. Los Angeles crippled by walkout of 7,000 engineers, firemen, brakemen, switchmen and yard hands.

5—Fifty per cent. of the great automobile plants of Detroit are closed for want of fuel, with from 50,000 to 60,000 employes thrown into idleness. Food shortages reported in Detroit and elsewhere.

6—New York brokers, lawyers and others volun-

200 CASUALTIES IN FIGHT IN SONORA

Agua Prieta, Mex., April 13—Sonora's war of secession from the Mexican republic began late Monday with a battle in which there were 200 casualties, according to advices received here today by General J. M. Pina, commander of the first division of Sonora troops. The battle occurred at Pass Blanco at the Chihuahua State line, beginning when the long-awaited attempt of Carranza troops to enter Sonora through the pass was started.

REPORT ARMY PAY BILL CARRYING $377,246,944

Washington, April 13.—The army pay bill for 1921, reported today to the House by the Military Affairs Committee, carries a total of $377,-246,944. It makes provisions for pay of an average standing army of 176,-000 men.

7—Charges made in New York State Legislature that the rail strike is the forerunner of the general strike with which radicals expect to bring about the "One Big Union" and revolution.

Auto Plants Forced to Close; Food Shortage in West

Closing down of 50 per cent of the great automobile plants of Detroit for want of fuel, enforced idleness for thousands of factory hands and growing food shortages both East and West, marked the progress of the rebel railroad strike today.

Fifty thousand men were thrown out of work in Detroit alone. The giant Ford plant, which generates its own power, was still in operation, but officials declared it was but a matter of days when its tens of thousands of employes would be forced into idleness.

The food shortage in Detroit and other smaller Western cities was acute today. Prices have advanced 100 per cent. Profiteers were taking advantage of the chaos to prey upon the weak. A truck service was trying to replace the railroads in bringing foodstuffs from the interior towns, but as to when the service had been inadequate.

The progress of the strike in the East was less spectacular but more sinister. New York's transportation system was slowly being strangled by the outlaws. In New England, freight service was in the process of slow paralysis.

The most serious development of the day was the threat of 15,000 shopmen in Michigan City, Ind., to join the rebel switchmen unless the roads discontinued the use of strike breakers. This was taken as an indication that other railway crafts were breaking away from their union chiefs and preparing to join the strike.

The Detroit plants which have been forced to close their doors included the Fisher Body Corporation, employing 12,000 men; Hudson Motor Car Company, 8,500; Cadillac Motor Company, 6,000 men; Studebaker Corporation, 5,600 men, and the Timkin Axle Company, 4,500 men.

Strike Situation Reported Improving in the West

Chicago, April 13.—The switchmen's strike situation throughout the West appeared today to be brightening proportionately as it was reported as growing more serious in the East.

In Chicago, much restlessness was reported among the strikers and it is believed by the railroad officials and Brotherhood chiefs that a back-to-work movement is started, will be followed by a general rush of the strikers to return to their jobs. All freight terminals here show considerable improvement, it was announced by the railroads, and barges on several of the roads are lifted. There was a noticeable change for the better at the stockyards, where livestock re-ipts gradually approaching normal, and activities were resumed at all but big packing plants.

18,000 PREPARE TO GO OUT.

Eighteen thousand railroad shopmen employed here and at Michigan City, Ind., are preparing to join the strike within twenty-four hours, the railroads do not cease employing strike-breakers.

This was regarded by railroad officials as a serious menace, inasmuch as it might involve the possibility of the 100,000 railroad shopmen throughout the country joining the strike.

From Fort Wayne, Ind.; Columbus, Ohio, and Akron, Ohio, came reports that the strikers had returned to work. There were similar movements afoot in Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth and the three Michigan cities, Grand Rapids, Saginaw and Battle Creek.

At Rock Island 400 switchmen were reported to have returned at Kansas City and at Seattle, Tacoma, Memphis, Cincinnati, Pueblo, Colorado and St. Joseph, Mo., the men were reported as standing solidly against joining the strike despite the efforts of agitators to induce them to go out.

CLAIM CONDITION IMPROVED.

A bulletin issued today by the railroad heads said: "The strike situation in Chicago continued to improve yesterday. Increases were reported in the number of switching crews and in the tonnage of stock, coal and other commodities moved both in and out of the Chicago district. Passenger and suburban train service continues unaffected by the strike."

Whether the strikers would obey the ultimatum of United States District Attorney Charles F. Clyne to "return to work or let other men fill their jobs," was not disclosed definitely early today by the strike leaders, but among the rank and file of the strikers there seemed to be a disposition to defy the government.

The strike leaders maintained their contention that the strike is still growing everywhere instead of abating.

Cleveland Shopmen Threaten New Strike

By International News Service.

Cleveland, April 13.—While "desertions" from the ranks of the "outlaw" railroad yardmen's organization were in prospect here today, as a result of the plea of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the men return to work because "the life of organized labor is at stake in this strike," another and more serious situation loomed in the proposed Cleveland Shopmen's Association, which plans to close down the local railroad ships at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Meanwhile officials of the "rebel" switchmen's body today were awaiting action on their appeal to Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson, to send conciliators to Cleveland immediately to adjust the strike difficulties.

Railway boilermakers will meet tomorrow night to take a strike vote.

Loyal R. R. Workers Rebuke the "Outlaws"

By International News Service.

Kansas City, Mo., April 13.—The outstanding purposes of the fifth biennial convention of the railway department of the American Federation of Labor in session here may be outlined as follows:

Requests for wage increases to be submitted to all railroads on April 28.

Results to be reported back to general executive officers "not later than May 20."

Endorsement of the Plumb plan for government ownership and "democratic operation" of all railroads in the country.

Embarkation of a non-partisan plan to unseat all members of Congress who voted for the Cummins-Esch railroad bill, described by convention leaders as "the most vicious piece of class legislation ever written on the statute books."

Rebuke for all members of the unions and brotherhoods making up the department or affiliated with it, who have participated in the Chicago strike.

Here are the wage demands that will be presented on April 28:

For all machinists, boilermakers, blacksmith, sheet metal workers, electrical workers and carmen, a minimum hourly rate of 85 cents; for all helpers in above crafts, minimum of 60 cents; gang foremen, $1 per hour; assistant foremen, $1.05; foremen, $1.10.

Switchmen—Foremen, nights, $5; foremen, days, $5.50; helpers, nights, $5.50; helpers, days, $7; switch tenders, same rate as helpers.

Railroad Labor Board Named by Wilson

Washington, April 13.—President Wilson today named the Railroad Labor Board, created by the Cummins-Esch bill to settle disputes between railroad employes and employers.

The board is composed of nine members, three representing labor, three representing the railroad management and three representing the public, as follows:

Public group: G. W. W. Hangar, District of Columbia; Henry Hunt, ex-Mayor of Cincinnati; R. M. Barton of Tennessee.

Employes' group: Albert Phillips, Ohio; A. O. Wharton, J. J. Forrester.

Management group: Horace Baker, J. H. Elliott, William L. Park.

G. W. W. Hangar is assistant commissioner of the United States Board of Mediation and Conciliation. Henry Hunt is an ex-mayor of Cincinnati. R. M. Barton has been for many years a Justice in the Tennessee Court of Appeals.

Albert Phillips is vice-president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive firemen and Enginemen. A. O. Wharton is head of the railroad employes' division of the American Federation of Labor and has recently been with the Labor Adjustment Board of the Railroad Administration. J. J. Forrester is head of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

Horace Baker was recently connected with the Cincinnati and New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railroad. J. H. Elliott was formerly general manager of the Texas Pacific Railroad. William L. Park was vice-president and general manager of the Illinois Central Railroad and a vice-president of the Chicago Great Western.

OBJECT TO LIQUOR MEN AS PROHIBITION AGENTS

Plymouth, April 13.—The 600 delegates to the Methodist Episcopal conference went on record as opposing the appointment of former bartenders and liquor men as Federal prohibition officers. In an address today, Rev. J. F. Cooper, president of the Methodist Episcopal Seminary of East Greenwich, R. I., said: "Practically all of the liquor prohibition enforcement officers are ex-liquor men. We do not approve of the appointment of any of these agents." The conference voted not to take any definite action against card-playing and dancing. A committee was appointed to report later.

HELD FOR HEARING FOR MISUSING THE MAILS

Charged with using the mails to defraud, George W. Dool, thirtyone, of Ashburton place, today was held in $1,000 for a hearing on April 29 by United States Commissioner Hayes. He was held on an indictment from Littleton, N. H. which charged that he placed unsolicited advertisements in a paper called the "Labor Review," purporting to be the official organ of the American Federation of Labor, and then wrote the firms advertised demanding pay. The firm named in the complaint was the Draper Maynard Company of Plymouth, N. H.

JOSIAH BABCOCK OF MILTON DEAD, AGED 69

Josiah Babcock, widely-known resident of Milton, died at his home, 37 Bryant avenue, that town, today of pneumonia. He was born in Milton sixty-nine years ago and for many years conducted a general store there. For the last thirteen years he has been tax collctor, but resigned at the last town meeting because of failing health. Two sons, Josiah, Jr., former Representative in the Legislature, and Paul A., both of Milton, and one daughter, Mrs. Earnest W. Glover, of Lynn survive. Funeral services will be held at the residence at 2 p. m.

SOUTH END WOMAN OVERCOME BY GAS

Beatrice Garasinas, twenty, of No. 42 Dwight street, South End, is being treated at the City Hospital for gas poisoning. Her condition is not serious, the doctors say. She was found in her room on the first floor in an unconscious condition by Anasrvino, her husband. Gas was flowing from two jets.

FOOD SHORTAGE DUE TO STRIKE

New England Industries, Without Coal, May Be Forced to Close

INDUSTRIES THREATENED.

The New Haven announced today it had not received a ton of coal in twenty-four hours. It usually handles 135 car loads a day. What paralysis this might threaten to the industries of New England, already with scanty reserve, officials of the road today would not dare to forecast.

The New Haven admitted it had been unable to move any of its through freight to points west due to the tieup of New York and its harbor by the strike of the tugmen and bargemen.

The Boston & Albany also admitted it had very little coal. It claimed it was handling 70 per cent. of its normal freight.

Passenger service on both the New Haven and Boston & Albany today was about normal. The New Haven today put back the Knickerbocker Limited and the Merchants Limited, both New York trains leaving here at 1 p. m. and 5 p. m., respectively.

THROTTLES "OUTLAWS."

The Boston & Albany handled 70 per cent. of its normal freight and announced that it had throttled the "outlaw" movement on its line.

At the same time charges of profiteering made against marketmen, said to have taken advantage of the situation to boost prices, were being investigated by agents of the Commission on the Necessities of Life.

According to the Chamber of Commerce statistics only 26,320 pounds of butter were received in twenty-four hours as compared to 87,083 pounds a week ago. Five cars of beef came into the city as against a daily average of thirty-five to forty. One car of live poultry has been received this week, although usually twelve are shipped here during that priod. Dressed poultry also dropped off, as did apples and eggs.

SHIP FOOD BY PARCEL POST.

The chamber stated that today's receipts were limited to stuff that had passed the gateways before the strike assumed its present proportions, and that nothing west of these gateways would be moved until a settlement was reached. Word was received from the New York Produce Exchange to the effect that quantities of butter and eggs were being shipped by parcel post.

The Boston & Maine received no freight from its Western gateways and received no freight for shipment to points West. It announced it could handle freight for Northern and local points through White River Junction and its Canadian connections.

All three local railroads today accepted freight for intra-state points.

Edward Fisher, associate commissioner of labor and industries, today conferred with officials of the Boston & Maine and Boston & Albany roads in an attempt to avert any strike of freight handlers in this city.

Thus far New England railroad men have taken no part in the "outlaw" strike, and strenuous efforts were made to prevent the freight handlers from going out, thereby intensifying an already serious situation.

Mr. Fisher was informed by William F. Dempsey, organizer of the International Longshoremen's Association, with which the Freight Handlers' Union is associated, that the local freight handlers have been deprived of an increase of twenty cents an hour granted by the Arbitration Board of the Railroad Administration.

LEVERETT POST OFFICE LOOTED

Safe Blowers Escape as Fire Destroys Building; Loss Over $5000

Greenfield, April 13.—The postoffice safe at Leverett was blown open, and the general store in which it was located destroyed by a resultant fire, with a total loss estimated at $5,000, early today.

State Detectives James Daly and Maurice P. Nelligan, who were assigned to the case, believe the safe was blown by yeggmen, who escaped in an automobile after securing $115 in registered mail, $28 in money orders and $30 in stamps.

Residents of the hamlet were awakened by an explosion, and on looking out discovered the general store of E. B. Howard to be in flames. Before aid could be secured the structure was burned to the ground. It was said that dynamite was used in opening the safe.

POSTOFFFICE CLERKS THANK THE AMERICAN

Millionaires Act as R. R. Firemen

New York, April 13.—Residents of Montclair, N. J., known as the "millionaire suburb," stoked two commuters' trains into New York today loaded with business men.

The firing was done by Captain Newall P. Weed, ex-captain of a machine gun company in the war, and Elliot Brixton, also an ex-service man. Both are members of wealthy families.

Another train was fired by Cyrus Courier and J. Edwin William, Manhattan business men.

Mayor David J. McKenna of Englewood, N. J., sent a train to New York with Cameron Blakie, stock broker; Joseph Andrews, banker, and W. L. Mason, lawyer, acting as firemen.

Mayor R. Stanley Clarke of Tenafly, N. J., led other business men in operating another "commuter." They fired the engine, collected tickets and handled baggage.

'FIFTH WHEEL' IN SCIENCE SUIT

Judge Pierce Objects to Attorney-General Serving in That Capacity

Judge Pierce in the Supreme Court, sitting in the hearing on the Christian Science controversy, today told Attorney-General J. Weston Allen, who had introduced a motion to intervene, that he did not like the idea of the attorney-general "ringing himself in as the fifth wheel of the coach, "and stated that the directors of the church had "made of themselves kings to be a law unto themselves."

The morning session adjourned without a decision by the court. The attorney-general, in support of his motion to intervene, on speaking on the question whether the directors had the power under the manual to remove other members, contended that there should be a central authority, which he considered was vested in the board of directors.

In argument he said: "I allege in my bill that there was a meeting and organization a month prior to the meeting held in September, 1892. This I believe, was not brought before the master. If that is true, it is a fact of vital importance."

He was here interrupted by the court, who said:

"You seek to have two additional matters brought before the master; first, the prior meeting of September, 1892, second, that evidence which was not introduced tends to establish that the duties of the directors as determined at the meeting in August constituted them as authoritative control of the church."

"That is so," said Mr. Allen.

Judge Pierce continued: "Looking at it as I do now I have a grave doubt whether you ought to be allowed to pass the job. I don't like the idea of the Attorney-General finding himself in as the fifth wheel of the coach. I don't think you have a right to come in and say to Mr. Whipple or Mr. Thomson (attorneys in the case), 'Do this or do that,' and I should not blame them if they told you would better go back to the State House, where you belong.

"I can't think the Attorney-General can come in and demand admission. The question here is whether the board of directors had the power to remove the trustees. The board of directors, under their interpretation of the manual, have made of themselves kings, to be a la wunto themselves. They frone out the first members. If everyone agrees, you may intervene to fight the windmill. It looks to us like going out to fight a windmill."

IRISH RAILS TIED UP BY STRIKE

General Walkout Effected as Protest Against Treatment of Political Prisoners

Sir Nevil Macready, new commander-in-chief of the British troops in Ireland, arrived here today.

Industrial conditions in Cork, Waterford, Limerick and Derry were completely stagnated as well as in Dublin.

Dublin was without light during the night.

The walkout even extended to the municipal firemen, and they refused to respond to alarms.

The chairman of the Mountjoy Prison Board of the visiting justices and medical officers have resigned.

A crowd gathered in front of the Mountjoy Jail and became so threatening that the British military authorities sent a tank to disperse it.

Soldiers armed with fixed bayonets and supported with machine guns were placed on guard around the jail. Captain White, son of Field Marshal White, was arrested while attemting to address the troops.

A labor manifesto quoted the British jailers as saying "let them die," and called on the workers of Ireland, "In the name of humanity, give the lead as you did in the fight against conscription."

As Mountjoy "hunger striker" released on the expiration of his term said there were 104 prisoners left, all too weak to move, their eyes glazed and most of them near insanity.

Last Friday, it is learned, medical examiners recommended the release of seventy-two prisoners because of their miserable physical and mental condition, but the authorities refused.

Home of Sinn Fein Leader in England Raided

London, April 13.—Scotland Yard detectives today raided the West End office and the home of Arthur O'Brien, head of the Sinn Fein in England, seeking evidence of plots. Pending the arraignment upon the life of Lord French, Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland.

Mr. O'Brien's home is at Walling, a suburb. C. O'Shannon, a prominent Sinn Feiner, was arrested here, charged with sedition.

DINERS WILL RECEIVE PROFIT-SHARE CHECKS

The employes of Jason Weiler Sons, Washington street, diamond importers and jewelers, enjoy their annual dinner with the members of the firm at the Hotel Somerset tonight at 7 o'clock. The event will be one of pleasure for the workers as well as the employers, as additional profit sharing and bonus checks will be given those entitled to them. An entertainment will be provided, with musical numbers.

BARONESS ROTHSCHILD DRAGGED FROM BED BY FRENCH SOLDIERS

FORCED TO COOK FOR TROOPS

Noblewoman Lodges Complaint at Paris of Indignities Imposed Upon Her

Paris, April 12.—The Baroness de Rothschild, mother of Baron Edmund de Rothschild, the millionaire financier, protested to Premier Millerand through the German delegation here today against the behavior of French officers in the ancestral chateau of the Rothschilds at Frankfort.

She alleges that a French colonel, accompanied by a large staff, entered the chateau on the morning the city was occupied, demanded ten of the best bedroom and instant breakfast, not permitting the servants to do any work except to wait on them.

DRAGGED FROM HER BED.

It is further charged that the colonel and his suite insisted that the Baroness, who is eighty-eight years of age and very feeble, get out of bed and personally wait on them and cook their meals.

In spite of the protests of the venerable woman, the officers, it is alleged, practically dragged her from her bed and forced her to comply with their demands.

The aged Baroness finally placed before the Frenchmen breakfast consisting mainly of eggs and apologized for her inability to prepare a larger repast, unaided by the servants, who were powerless to interfere.

Instead of repining, the French colonel, on the note's protest charges, dashed plates, cups and eggs to the floor, wrecking some rare old chinaware, and told the Baroness to get back to the kitchen and prepare a meal "worthy of her station."

After this demand had been complied with, the colonel, it is stated, ordered the best rooms in the house to be converted into bedrooms. The French officers slept in the chateau for two nights, and finally left without any farewell or offering to pay damages.

The protest is certain to cause an uproar in high circles in France, where Baron Edmund de Rothschild, himself a naturalized Frenchman and famous as a philanthropist, is politically powerful. He is expected to demand instant apologies for his mother and punishment of the officers responsible for the alleged insults.

Alice Roosevelt at 'Peak' of Beauty

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth (Alice Roosevelt), daughter of the late ex-President, is a daily visitor in the halls of Congress, an interested listener at the debates, especially those in which her husband, Congressman from Ohio, participates. She seems to have lost neither youth nor beauty.

MAYOR REBUKES CITY COUNCIL

Vetoes Ordinance Which He Says Would Hamper City Tax Collector

Mayor Peters vetoed today the ordinance passed by the City Council requiring the collector to take oath in behalf of the city, property sold by its tax title for non-payment of taxes.

The Mayor reproved the Council for its action in passing such an ordinance saying:

"I know of no more effective way of hindering the collector in his task of gathering the city taxes than to force him to take property to enforce the lien for taxes."

Pointing out that the city will face a deficit of approximately $2,000,000 next year, even though the Legislature grants the requested tax limit of $11.52, the Mayor states that the effort of the Council should be to help, not hinder the collector. Unless the collector can provide a surplus of close to this sum, it will be necessary to curtail service and discharge many employes, he declares.

"Although the City Council has seen fit to recommend a course which would bring about such an unfortunate condition, I cannot convince myself that such action would be a fair one either to city employes or to taxpayers at large," he concludes.

Council members declared at the time of the passage of the ordinance a week ago that its object was to prevent the sale of homes of small property holders who were unable to pay their taxes.

ROCKEFELLER PARTY IN BOSTON FRIDAY

A thousand persons, among whom will be some of the most prominent citizens of the city, will on Friday greet John D. Rockefeller, Jr., when he with a party of 25 will come here to speak in behalf of the interchurch world movement and the $336,000,000 financial drive of 30 denominations for a total of $426,377,572 to be raised in eight days, from April 23 to May 2.

Mr. Rockefeller will attend a luncheon to be given at 12:25 o'clock Friday noon at the Copley-Plaza and a public mass meeting to be held in the evening at 8 o'clock at Symphony Hall. The speakers at the meeting will include Mr. Rockefeller, leader of the party; Governor Carl Milliken of Maine, and Dr. Earl D. Taylor, general executive secretary of the interchurch world movement.

R. I. DEMOCRATS MAY WORK FOR 5 P. C. BEER

Providence, R. I., April 13.—Rhode Island Democrats, at their coming State convention, may take their stand for national legislation allowing the use of beer and light wines up to five per cent. alcohol content, and a nine-hour day for all workers, including public employes, and the abolition of stables up with conscription.

Alberic A. Archambault, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, said that all these questions would come before the State convention. He favored the convention being called May 8.

BIROS' FATE IN HANDS OF JURY LATE TODAY

Salem, April 13.—The fate of William Biros, on trial in the Essex County Superior Court charged with murdering Miss Mary B. Lavoie, will probably be placed in the hands of the jury this afternoon. Judge Callahan requested counsel to be prepared to begin their arguments at 2 o'clock.

Biros was the only witness for the defence. He denied in substance the detail that he maintained any murderous intent on the night of the shooting. He said the gun went off in firing only one shot, and that one not at Miss Lavoie, but in the direction of the window, which struck a blow which dazed him.

SPRINGFIELD CLERGY ASK REFERENDUM ON SPORTS

Springfield, April 13. — After a heated two-hour debate the Springfield Ministers' Association passed a resolution asking the city council to defer action on the Sunday sports bill until the question can be submitted to the people for a vote. The action came as a surprise as it was understood that the clergymen were in favor of Sunday baseball. The clergymen ask that the people vote on the matter at the time of regular election. This would prevent Sunday ball this Summer.

EX-MAYORS TO SPEAK AT R. I. PRESS DINNER

Providence, April 13.—Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald of Boston will be the "big noise" at the State House Press Club dinner at the Crown Hall tomorrow night. Fitzgerald, former mayor of Pawtucket, will be toastmaster and every politician of prominence has been urged to be allowed to be present. Governor Emerson has accepted the invitation to greet the visitors in the name of the Press Club. The "Knocker," the club's yearly publication, will deal with inner workings of the General Assembly.

400 GALLONS A YEAR DRUGGISTS' LIQUOR LIMIT

Another curtailment in the amount of liquor that may be sold by druggists was put into effect by Director of Prohibition O'Connell when he received new regulations from Washington limiting the withdrawals of alcohol by druggists to 400 gallons a year. This amount will be distributed through the year at 100 gallons every quarter.

ASSESS $25 FINE FOR SHORT-WEIGHT SCALES

Joseph Rebinovitz, proprietor of a woolen stock establishment at No. 399 Second street, Chelsea, was fined $25 in the Chelsea Court today on a charge of using short-weight scales to measure the amount of wool sorted by his help. According to the testimony the scales had been condemned. He appealed.

PROMOTER SHOT PARTNER HELD

Their Wives' Conflicting Stories Complicate Chicago Murder Mystery

By International News Service.

Chicago, April 12.—Picked men of the Chicago police force are trying to solve a sensational murder mystery, the shooting to death of William C. Bryan, a promoter, associated in business with Ellsworth Griffin, president of the Insurance Trust Company.

The killing occurred in the company's offices in the First National Bank building, following what apparently was a drinking bout.

Griffin, questioned after being discovered moaning in delirium in the corridor outside the offices, admitted he had shot Bryan and then collapsed into incoherent mutterings. He was said to be on the verge of delirium tremens.

Conflicting stories told by the wives of the two men make the mystery an intricate one. Bryan came here from Indianapolis six months ago and engaged with Griffin in business. According to the latter's wife, the men held drinking bouts in the company offices after the close of the day's work.

Monday night Griffin did not go home for dinner and Mrs. Griffin, according to her story, telephoned his office. She said she knew from his voice he had been drinking, and went to the office to get him.

Arriving there, she said, she discovered Bryan's body lying in a pool of blood on the floor. There was two bottles of whiskey on a desk, and a revolver with three chambers emptied, lay beneath a wash stand. Bryan had been shot twice, and there was a mark of a bullet elsewhere in the office.

Then, Mrs. Griffin said, she found her husband in a drunken stupor in the corridor.

Mrs. Bryan, summoned by Mrs. Griffin, termed the latter "a queer woman," and jealous of the time Griffin had been spending in Bryan's company.

BOSTON SAFETY COUNCIL TO MEET

The Boston Safety Council will hold its monthly meeting and dinner at Young's Hotel, Thursday, at 6:30 p. m. The program for this meeting will be largely devoted to safety bulletins, what to use and how. The speakers are to be: Henry A. Hale, of Hale & Kilburn Co.; C. Stoddard, superintendent of inspection, Massachusetts Liability and Insurance corporation, Ltd., and Arnold C. Murray, editor of the Hood Arrow. Wood Rubber Company. Victor T. Noonan, director of safety, Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, will talk on safe arrangements are in charge of E. N. Coffin, staff engineer, Associated Industries of Massachusetts, and T. G. Ex-Millionaire Is Gas Pumper for Flivvers

An ex-millionaire gold mine owner serving gas to the lordly owner of a flivver!

Watch your wheels the next time you drive into a filling station. The ex-millionaire may be the man who fills your tank. Isn't that enough to take the conceit out of some of you flivver steerers who think that you own the roads every time that you pilot your boulevard cooties along a crowded thoroughfare!

There is such a man in Boston, and he was once a bona fide owner of gold mines. The American knows his name, but withholds it at his request. And he doesn't fill your gas tank because he needs the money, but because it gives him a chance to study human nature, you included. So watch your wheels!

WASTEFUL OF GASOLINE.

1. The owner of a flivver cares less for the rising price of gasoline than the millionaire driver of the multi-cylindered car.

2. The small-car driver wastes more gasoline through carelessness and extravagance than the plutocrat in the padded limousine.

THE REAL PROFITEERS.

3. Owners of little cars are the real profiteers of the country, and send the price of gas and oil soaring because they are wasteful.

4. Flivver drivers, also those out of tax, are the garage crooks, the road hogs, and the arrogant motor scofflaws.

5. Everyone is concerned about high prices except those who have the money to spend lately and who are imbued with temporary prosperity. These people are ashamed to count the cost of anything.

"The little cars cause most of the trouble in this world," states this expert motorist. "Their drivers are arrogant, pushing, unsatisfied with anyone who serves them. They are the ones who order gas extravagantly, never gauge their tanks, and apparently care nothing about rising prices.

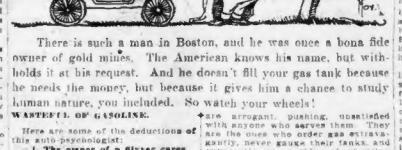
RICH NEVER WASTE.

"The rich people are, as a rule, conservative and careful. They are not ashamed to bewail the price of gas and oil, and they never waste.

"These little cars strut up to the tanks like turkey cocks in a barnyard, they are all swelled up with their own importance. No twelve-thousand-dollar de luxe limousine makes as much commotion about itself as the little tin god on wheels.

"The real profiteers in this country are the small mechanics who are demanding more than they are worth, and who insist upon it in spite of public criticism and inconvenience. Then they buy a cheap car and drive around as if they owned the earth.

So the next time you jazz up to a filling station in your flivver, don't be too impressed with your importance. You may be up against a millionaire.



RUNAWAY PANIC IN SOMERVILLE

Patrolman Crossman and Telegraph Pole Stop Mad Dash of Frightened Horse

Hundreds of pedestrians were panic-stricken today on Somerville avenue, Somerville, when a horse and a wagon owned by Max Cohen, of No. 327 Webster avenue, raced, at top speed, partly along the sidewalk, toward Union square, with Patrolman Claude Crossman clinging to the auto-truck. Terror was changed to relief by the abrupt stop in collision with a telegraph pole which demolished the wagon. Crossman had been dragged by the horse until Edward Begley, chairman of the committee, and leaped to its head as it passed him.

When opposite No. 240 Somerville avenue, the horse turned a bit and rushed onto the sidewalk, endangering the lives of a number of people who jumped. However, they managed to dodge to the safety of nearby doorways.

WOBURN LEGION TO ENTERTAIN MINSTRELS

Members of the cast of the minstrel show recently staged by George A. Welch, chairman; Edward Begley, Ralph Moreland and James Degnan.

GET ORDERS TO FORM COLORED BATTALION

Authority to organize a battalion of colored troops as part of the National Guard of Massachusetts was communicated to Adjutant-General Jesse F. Stevens from the military authorities in Washington.

The previous lack of this authority had heretofore been explained by Governor Coolidge as reason for not organizing a negro unit in connection with the reorganization in this State of the National Guard.

CAMBRIDGE MAN SUED FOR $1,500 IN AUTO MISHAP

Myer L. Alpert of Cambridge has been sued for $1,000 by N. Gertrude Read of Somerville. She claims that she was injured when Alpert's car collided with one she was in.

John T. Reed of Somerville sues Alpert for $500 for the damage done to his car in the collision.

TEREGNO TO BE TRIED IN MAY

Hampden County Sheriff Condemns "Hasty Action" in Criticizing Court Officers

Springfield, April 13. — Antonio Teregno, who escaped the death penalty by three and a half hours for the murder of Raffaele Cammerota, will get his new trial at the May sitting of Superior Court. Assistant District Attorney Ralph H. Tillon made the announcement. His case will have precedence over four other murder trials. Teregno is confined in the York street jail.

Official condemnation of the "hasty action" of some persons for their criticism of court officers connected with the Teregno trial was revealed by the publication of a letter sent out by Embury P. Clark, sheriff of Hampden county.

An investigation is under way and the result will be made public shortly, according to the information given to William K. Davis, who was foreman of the jury during the trial.

Sheriff Clark informs Chairman Charles C. Spellman of the county commissioners, who made charges of misconduct, and suggested a school for the instruction of court officers, that he is unable to accept the advice, the conduct of officers of the court being beyond his authority. In his letter Clark appeals to the public not to condemn the court officers while an investigation is being made.

"LITTLE MOTHER" IN WORCESTER BURNED

Worcester, April 13.—Helen Lucas, aged ten, No. 6 Ward street, who has been a little mother for two children since the death on today in the City Hospital, being treated for burns received when she overturned a kettle of boiling water onto her feet.

The child has been caring for youngsters at home while her father, a widower, has been trying to earn sufficient money to support his family by working in a machine shop eight hours each day and being employed as a dishwasher eight hours each night in a restaurant, thus working two days in one.

Barry and Jones.

WOOD HASTENS BACK TO DUTY

Growing Seriousness of Railroad Strike Leads Him to Cut Short Campaign

Major-General Leonard Wood today cancelled his Eastern campaign for the presidential nomination to hurry back to Chicago to resume command of the Central Department of the Army. The growing seriousness of the railroad strike was given as a reason for his action. He had planned to be here two days.

General Wood will leave Boston after an address tonight before the Salem Chamber of Commerce. Today he spoke at a breakfast tendered him by members of the Boston City Club at a luncheon at Symphony Hall given by the members of his class in the Harvard Medical School and at the home of Mrs. F. Lothrop Ames in behalf of the Children's Hospital.

He made the announcement of his intention at the City Club breakfast, saying "The situation is such that I feel that it is my duty to give up my leave and to return to my post as commander of the Central Department at Chicago. The situation is not one which allows personal consideration to enter into the matter in the least."

Aside from his several Boston engagements he gives up a speaking tour that was to take him through Delaware, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Pennsylvania.

In outlining his policies for the future government of the United States, General Wood declared that more attention must be paid to the questions of labor. He urged a wider co-operation between employer and employe, called for an application of the square deal and golden rule and denounced the "one big union" idea.

He was introduced by President George S. Smith of the City Club as a crusader carrying forward the spirit of Roosevelt and Gardner. The applause lasted several minutes.

He called for the adoption of the League of Nations, but with the Lodge reservations.

General Wood's voluntary decision to return to Chicago cancels a meeting tomorrow afternoon at Tremont Temple and a speech before the Roosevelt Club tomorrow night.

PIANO MOVERS STRIKE: DEMAND HIGHER PAY

A ten-hour day and an increase in wages are demanded by members of the Piano Movers' Union in the West End district of Boston. Twenty-six employed by Bernstein, Hurst & Co., No. 31 Canal street, Cambridge, and No. 113 Chambers street, and several other firms went on strike today. Ten cents an hour increase for work sometimes eighteen hours a day, at present. Drivers receive $70 a week now and want $75. The helpers say they get $25 and are asking for $30 a week. These are the first demands of the Piano Movers' Furniture and Piano Moving Helpers' and Drivers' Union of Greater Boston. Only the West End is affected at present.

ARREST CAMBRIDGE SLASHER AFTER CHASE

Mayno Mastropazzo, twenty-six, of Porter street, Cambridge, was arrested today, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon upon Felso Domado of No. 18 Porter street. The alleged assault occurred at Portland and Main streets, Cambridge, and Mastropazzo was arrested after a chase of several blocks. Mastropazzo, according to the police, attacked Domado with a knife and during the chase threw it over a fence. The wound inflicted upon Domado required a gash across the scalp and face.

WORCESTER MEN BACK FOLEY FOR SHERIFF

Worcester, April 13.—A number of Worcester Republicans are planning to run Lieutenant Colonel Thomas F. Foley for sheriff of Worcester County, next Fall, if he will consent. This is a development in the fight between Frank B. Hall, State chairman of the Republican party and the present sheriff, Albert T. Richardson, for delegate to the Republican convention. Hall is running unpledged while Richardson is pledged to General Leonard Wood.

SUGAR STOCKS IN MARKET CLIMB

Wall Street Speculators Are Measuring Prosperity of Producers and Refiners

When Madame Housewife goes to the store to buy a pound of sugar at nineteen cents, if it is obtainable, she may be interested to know that the old saw, "it is an ill wind that blows nobody good," is applicable to the sugar "shortage."

Stocks in sugar companies are climbing by leaps and bounds on the New York stock exchange, for Wall Street speculators are measuring the prosperity of sugar companies.

The Cuban sugar crop of a year ago was taken in hand by the United States and British governments at 5½ cents a pound. Raws have recently sold at 19 cents or higher, or nearly three times last year's price. The government did not buy the crop that is now coming to market.

	1920 Low.	Today.	Advance.
Cuba Cane common	20¾	35¾	15
Cuban-American (old)	400	600	200
Cuba Alcoe	111	163	52

EDWARD A. FILENE TELLS HOW TO WIN SUCCESS

Edward A. Filene gave an instructive talk to the former service men students at the Knights of Columbus Free Evening School at No. 200 Berkeley street. Mr. Filene talked on "How to Keep a Better Job." He said that in order to be successful a man did not have to be supernatural, but that he had to equip himself with right ideas and put those ideas into practical application. He said that hard work, straight thinking and good health were essentials for success, and that any job is good enough as a starting point. Principal John C. Tetler told of the service rendered by Mr. Filene in the war.

BRUISED AS AUTO IS DRIVEN INTO DITCH

John J. Driscoll of No. 490 Quincy street, Dorchester, narrowly escaped serious injury today when he accidentally drove his automobile into a ditch on Haverhill street, Charlestown. He was buried headlong into the street, and escaped with a few bruises.

GENERAL ALARM IN CAMBRIDGE

Old West End Car Stables Completely Destroyed in Spectacular Conflagration

A general alarm was sounded for a spectacular fire of unknown origin that completely destroyed the Old West End Street Railway stables, Main street, Cambridgeport. The loss is estimated at $20,000, principally in auto truck bodies and carriages stored in the building.

Fifteen horses were rescued by citizens and firemen as the flames were spreading.

So rapid was the spread of the flames through the old car stables that when Engine 7, located directly across the street, arrived, the building was virtually a mass of flame. Fire officials, fearing that the fire would spread into the tenement houses adjoining, followed the first alarm with a second, third, fourth, and then the general alarm—all within a half hour.

Fire apparatus from all parts of Cambridge and Boston responded.

One hundred and fifty new carriages owned by the Samuel Stewart Carriage Company and stored on the second floor were totally destroyed.

G. A. Sandberg, a former Boston police officer, who rented storage space in the rear of the street floor for thirteen commercial automobile trunk bodies.

The structure, 200 feet in length and 100 feet wide, is owned by the Boston Elevated. It was built more than seventy-five years ago.

CITY AUDITOR OF WOBURN RESIGNS

Robert J. Corry, city auditor of Woburn, has resigned that position, which he held for eleven years, to join the statistical force of the Massachusetts Department of Industrial Works. Corry is the third municipal officer of Woburn to resign this year. Thomas H. McGowan resigned as chairman of the board of assessors in February and the post of superintendent of public works was made vacant when Henry V. Mackesy quit in March.

WOMAN, FILLING LAMP, BURNED AT MARLBORO

Marlboro, April 13.—Mrs. Mary Farrell, of No. 87 Maple street, while attempting to fill a lighted lamp in the Curtis shoe factory, was badly burned about the face, arms and hands. Her clothing became ignited. She grabbed some clothing hanging on a nail and smothered the blaze. Her hair was singed.

LACONIA MAN DIES 36 HOURS AFTER WIFE

Laconia, N. H., April 13.—George Sanders died at his home, No. 68 Bell street, at the Lakeport end of the city, within thirty-six hours of the death of his wife, Mrs. Maria Sanders. The undertaker was preparing Mrs. Sanders' body for burial when her husband expired.

SPEAKING OF VAMPS, HERE'S A PROBLEM

How many long vamps in 50 pairs of shoes? A foolish question. On it depends the answer to a little mathematical puzzle sent to the American by a Weymouth reader. Here is his problem:

In a certain shoe factory an employer making shoes in 20-pair lots pays 1 cent for every 3 long vamps cut and 1 cent for every 4 short vamps cut. There are 50 vamps in 20 pairs. For 20 long vamps a man gets 10 cents and for 20 short vamps he gets 15 cents, a total of 25 cents. The cost clerk says that 5 vamps are cut for 7 cents and 80 vamps are cut for 64 cents. Who is right?

The first man is right if the lot is divided evenly into 15 pairs of long-vamp shoes and 5 pairs of short-vamp shoes. The cost clerk is right if there are 15 pairs of long-vamp shoes in the lot and only 12 pairs of short-vamps.

Name "Bayer" means genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for nineteen years. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost few cents. Aspirin is trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that the many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfil the promises of the manufacturers. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example by Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, as many people claim, that it fulfils almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcels Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention the Boston American. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

CUTICURA HEALED RED PIMPLES

Face Covered. Scaled Over. Itched and Burned.

"My face was covered with little red pimples. They scaled over, then dried up and were hard, and then would be four or five in groups, making them large. They burned and itched till I did not know what to do.

"I tried everything but they did no good. Then I was told to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After a week the pimples began to dry up and I only used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and not quite one box of Ointment when I was healed." (Signed) Miss Rosenna Allard, Wanoosnoc Rd., Fitchburg, Mass., June 7, 1919.

For every purpose of the toilet and bath, Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum are wonderfully good.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. X, Malden, Mass." Sold everywhere. Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

WHY SOCIETY WOMEN WASH THEIR OWN HAIR

They do, not because it is a fad, but because they wish to obtain the greatest possible hair beauty and be sure they are not using anything harmful. They have found that if washing the hair it is never wise to use a makeshift, but is always advisable to use a preparation made for shampooing only. Many of our friends say they get the best results from a simple home-made canthrox mixture. You can use this at a cost of about 3 cents a shampoo by getting some canthrox from your druggist and dissolving a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes enough shampoo liquid to apply to all the hair instead of just the top of the head, as with most preparations. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear in the rinsing water. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also delight you.—Advertisement.

PUBLIC URGED TO ATTEND BOSTON RENT PROTEST MEETING

RENT PAYERS TO PARADE HERE

Will Show Lawmakers That Action Is Necessary to Remedy Conditions

Plans are being made by the Boston American Tenants' League for a big torchlight parade and mass meeting to be held shortly in Boston.

Investigation has shown that despite the friendly attitude of many members of the Legislature towards measures designed to remedy the existing rent evils, many other members of the General Court feel that "a case is believing" and that only some demonstration, in which a vast outpouring of tenants passes before their eyes, will convince them of the urgency for enacting laws to relieve the situation.

MANY SOCIETIES TO AID.

In order to bring this about, and to provide the lobbying legislators with visible evidence of the attitude of the rent payers, the Boston American Tenants' League is preparing this demonstration. To this end it extends an invitation to all organizations in Greater Boston to participate in the big parade, the date and route of which will be announced later, and requests organizations which would like to take part to notify the Rent Editor, Boston American, at once in writing.

Joseph Seminara, who has been appointed secretary of the Italian branch of the league, forecasts a big representation of his compatriots in line, and several members of the Legislature have notified the rent editor that the organizations in their districts will be out in full strength.

No time should be lost by these organizations desiring to take part in this parade in notifying the rent editor, as it is desired to begin active preparations for the occasion within a few days, and all possible information must be on hand before such preparations are begun. If possible notify the rent editor today or tomorrow at the latest.

RECORD MEETING PLANNED.

The importance of this event for procuring action by the present General Court to relieve the rent situation before it adjourns, cannot be over-estimated. Only proof that the tenants demand such legislation will bring about action in the matter. If the tenants do not show by their participation in this event that the matter is one in which they have a vital interest, they cannot expect the members of the General Court to believe any assertions that the public demands relief.

It is planned to have the parade culminate in one of the biggest mass meetings ever held in Boston, at which speakers of national reputation and intimately connected with the anti-rent profiteering movement in other cities will tell of what other Legislatures have done to afford relief to the public.

Meanwhile other sectional mass meetings will be held. Preparations, for example, are going on for a mass meeting in Brookline, in which the residents of this section are evincing more than ordinary interest. Salem, too, has requested that Representative Martin Hays speak at a mass meeting there, where prominent labor bodies have already indorsed the work of the Boston American Tenants' League and the purposes of the Hays bill.

ACTION NEEDED AT ONCE.

As yet the Joint Committee on Judiciary, which is considering the Hays bill, has given the matter but cursory notice outside of their public hearing, at which Mr. Hays explained his measure in detail. At an executive session held next week, however, they will take the matter in hand and decide on a course of action.

The time in which relief legislation may be enacted is growing steadily shorter, and that is an added reason why every effort must be made to induce the General Court to take action before it adjourns.

Signed enrollments in the Boston American Tenants' League continue to come in from all parts of the Commonwealth, and the increasing number of letters received by the rent editor plainly shows that steadily increasing need for remedial laws.

Women's organizations are expected to take particular interest in the torchlight parade and the mass meeting, for they have shown extraordinary interest in the Hays bill, and the Boston American Tenants' League.

RENT BILL BEFORE CLUBS.

Mrs. William F. Whitman, president of the Dedham Women's Club, will put the Hays rent bill before her club members at a meeting next month. Mrs. Whitman says "your club is always interested in all civic, forward movements, and we always wish to help, on the right side of every question. It seems to me as if this Hays rent bill should be put through. I shall be glad to submit it to the club."

Mrs. Charles E. Ladd, president of the Friday Club of Everett, will place the Hays rent bill before her club members for indorsement at their next meeting. "I shall be very glad to do this," said Mrs. Ladd. "I will wish to do anything I can to help this bill along. I have heard of sections of the city and suburbs where apartments have been bought and the rent doubled. There is no warrant for such increase. It should be curbed."

Join Tenants' League and Insure Fair Rents!

If you believe in a fair deal for tenants and landlords sign the following and mail to Rent Editor, Boston American, 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass.:

Please enroll me as a member of the Boston American Tenants' League of Massachusetts. I am opposed to profiteering in real estate, and am in favor of the Hays bill to end such profiteering. Membership in the League shall assure my moral support, but shall involve no financial obligations.

Jewish Socialists Score Profiteering Landlords

Profiteering landlords of Greater Boston were denounced in a resolution adopted at a protest meeting against the high rents and their unwarranted increase held in Faneuil Hall under the auspices of the Jewish Branch of the Socialist party of Boston. Instances of alleged profiteering were cited by two West End tenants. One of the resolutions adopted urged the city or State to end the rent gouging evil by the erection of homes to be rented at the cost of maintenance. The speakers at the meeting which was presided over by Joseph Bearak, included Sylvester J. McBridge, president of Boston Typographical Union; H. Victorcon, George E. Roewer and Max Hamlin, organizer of the Hebrew Central Trades Council. Mr. McBridge and Mr. Roewer spoke in English, the other speakers Yiddish.

Mrs. Kaplan, of No. 5 Phillips street, said her rent had been raised from $22 to $60, and she was finally ordered out. She said her landlord told her "I have money and will put you out. The courts are with us, not with the tenant. I'll spend $200 to put you out."

She said visits to the State House and the Mayor's committee failed to help her.

WAR ON PASTOR IN STOCK DEAL

Opponents of Rev. Frank D. Smith Will Carry Their Fight Higher

Holyoke, April 13—A motion that Rev. Frank D. Smith, connected with the recent alleged stock swindles here, sever his relations with the First Presbyterian Church, of which he is pastor, was made at the congregation's annual meeting. Charging neglect of pastoral duties to carry on outside business, the faction, among the members opposed to Mr. Smith called for a dissolution of relations between the pastor and the church.

A bitter discussion followed, in the course of which friends of Mr. Smith testified that the stock he sold them was bona fide, and that they realized a profit from it. The opposition minority, unable to carry their motion, announced that the matter would be carried to the Connecticut Valley Presbytery, which is scheduled to hold a meeting at New Haven. This body is empowered to overrule the action of individual congregations.

Thomas Halcott presided at the meeting. A report of the treasurer showed a sound financial status.

A Judson Young, the Springfield broker, implicated in the alleged enticing of working girls, is in jail, having been unable to secure bond.

K. OF C. EMPLOYMENT OFFICES ARE MOVED

Temporary employment headquarters of the Knights of Columbus will be located at its home, No. 284 Berkeley street, as a result of the closing of the bureau on the Common, according to a statement issued today. The park department is removing all temporary buildings on the Common. Discharged service men seeking employment are asked to go to the Berkeley street home between 9 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

LIEUT. PAUL KELLER AT PARKER HILL HOSPITAL

Lieutenant Paul Keller, former sergeant-major of the Ninth Massachusetts Regiment, is at Parker Hill Hospital undergoing treatment for an old wound in the leg. Lieutenant Keller was discharged after his service in France, but was later given a commission as first lieutenant in the 126th Infantry. He abandoned a vocational course at Harvard College when ordered to the hospital.

Sunday Baseball by Worcester Council

Worcester, April 13.—Immediately after adopting the Sunday sports law for Worcester, members of the City Council decided to play the first game themselves. A team was organized and a baseball game arranged with the Worcester "All-Stars" at Crompton Park next Sunday.

Mayor Peter F. Sullivan will pitch the first ball. Former Representative Michael F. Malone, who was an umpire in the old Connecticut League, will make the decisions. The city auditor will be the official scorekeeper.

The act was adopted by the Worcester council Monday night, with only two dissenting votes. It was signed at once by the Mayor.

MORE BODIES ON WAY TO U. S.

Total of 476 Exhumed at Former A. E. F. Base at Brest, France

By International News Service.

Brest, April 13.—All the American dead at this former A. E. F. base, whose return to the United States was sought by relatives, have been exhumed. A total of 476 bodies were disinterred, of which 373 are now on board the United States ship Mercury, ready to sail for America.

A group of American officers, expert embalmers and French civilians were employed in preparing the bodies. All were wrapped in blankets and placed in hermetically sealed caskets.

Especial pains were taken in the identification. Each body was identified three times in order to make certain there was no mistake. During the exhumation the officers found that chemical stains destroyed the aluminum identification tags and the Graves Registration Committee is recommending to the War Department that a new kind of tag be employed. The unclaimed bodies taken on board the Mercury were placed in a huge morgue. The coffins were placed in rows under a great American flag. New identification crosses have been erected above the bodies that are still buried.

Arrangements are now being prepared at the national headquarters in New York which will be distributed to canvassers and others who worked to make up the bond drive successful.

IRISH DRIVE ENDS ON 25TH

National Committee Lauds Bay State for Leading Country in Subscriptions

Announcement was made today at the American Commission on Irish Independence that the bond certificate drive will be officially closed Sunday, April 25. By that time returns from every city and town must be in the hands of the central committee.

Late tabulation shows that returns received for the entire State to date, total $1,412,000. There is every indication, the State director announced, that $1,500,000 will be received before the close of the campaign. Other pledges amount to thousands, so that it is positively known that the high mark of $1,500,000, predicted two weeks ago by John F. Harrigan, State chairman, will be exceeded.

BAY STATE LEADS.

Local headquarters in cities and towns will be closed as soon as convenient during this week and next, but the State headquarters in Room 35, American House, Boston, will be open until the final day of the drive.

Telegrams of congratulations were received from nearly every executive officer of the American Commission on Irish Independence by the Massachusetts committee during the past few days, and Frank P. Walsh, national chairman, wired his appreciation for the extraordinary success of the workers in this State.

Walsh declared in his message that the Bay State leads all other States in the country in the bond certificate drive. New York State is second and Illinois is third. It is expected, however, that New York workers will take the lead when complete returns are tabulated for the Empire State.

SOUVENIRS FOR WORKERS.

Meetings of Irish organizations held throughout Greater Boston Sunday increased the large amount of bond subscriptions, which these societies already had turned in to the State officers. Examination of returns discloses the fact that every such organization has contributed to the fund and a majority of them have returned 100 per cent. subscriptions, showing that all members have purchased bond certificates.

Souvenirs are now being prepared at the national headquarters in New

NEW YORK. If you are feeling run-down, weak, nervous, tired in the morning, and generally ailing, these are the symptoms that should warn you to take care of your health.

Four persons in every ten are needing some tonic to bring them back to health. Now see this and feeble people, or those who are thin, pale, frail or nervous, should at once get a certain organic iron tonic for ease of certain elements that make for a strong constitution.

Some people after relying upon preparations composed chiefly of salts, quinine, dope, drugs, iron, calomel, cod-liver oil, etc., wonder why they find no benefit. That is easily explained by the fact that such persons need the phosphoric element, which is contained in BITRO-PHOSPHATE, the famous health preparation. Now obtainable everywhere.

The right thing for you to do is make a trial of BITRO-PHOSPHATE, beginning at once. It is not a patent medicine, but the formula is prescribed by many physicians for the ailments and symptoms mentioned above.

With every box of BITRO-PHOSPHATE goes the genuine health rules and a $300 guarantee. Buy a box of BITRO-PHOSPHATE. It is sold and recommended by all good druggists everywhere. Advertisement.

He Quit Tobacco

This veteran, C. H. Lamphere, was addicted to the excessive use of tobacco many years. He wanted to quit but needed something to help.

He learned of a free book that tells about tobacco habit and how to conquer it quickly, easily and safely. In a letter he writes: "I have no desire for tobacco any more. I feel like a new man." Others report similarly. Wonderful for easily overcoming cigarette and pipe habit, and chewing.

Anyone desiring a copy of this Book can get it free, postpaid, by writing to Edward J. Woods, TD-21, Station F, New York City. You will be surprised and pleased. Look for quicker nerves, stronger heart, better digestion, improved eyesight, increased vigor, longer life and other advantages if you quit poisoning yourself with tobacco. In three days you can be rid of the addiction—then become robust, add solid flesh, become a man among men. This is genuine; show others this advt.

PROBE BRIGHTON LIQUOR THEFT

Federal Prohibition Agents May Search Suspected Places in Marlboro

Federal agents working under the direction of William J. McCarthy, prohibition enforcement officer for this district, are prying into the circumstances surrounding the theft of forty-two barrels of liquor from the store of M. H. Glynn, in Brigham, on Friday.

Almost as soon as the theft was reported, Federal officers started their inquiry. They were particularly interested in the report that the forty-two barrels had been taken out of the building, loaded on a truck and removed from the vicinity two hours.

They also marvel at the fact that there were none who saw a truck or truck being loaded at the store. They believe it would have been necessary to use more than one truck to handle so large a load.

Their present effort is to locate the hiding place of the liquor. One report was received that two auto trucks loaded with liquor barrels were seen headed in the general direction of Marlboro. They passed through Waltham and Wayland during the early morning hours of Monday, going at a high rate of speed.

Prohibition officers may search one or two places in Marlboro.

Glynn a Former Marlboro Resident

Marlboro, April 13.—Michael H. Glynn, of No. 266 Washington street, Brighton, whose store was robbed of thousands of dollars' worth of liquor, formerly was a resident of this city. He was formerly employed as a bartender in John Brown's liquor store on Main street. He married Miss Katherine Burke, daughter of the late Thomas Burke, who is the niece of Michael Burke, millionaire liquor dealer in pre-prohibition days and a political power in this city for a quarter of a century.

BIGNEY IS STAUNCH WALSH SUPPORTER

Representative Robert E. Bigney of South Boston today denied the published statement that he is running as an "anti-Walsh" candidate for delegate to the Democratic National Convention in the Twelfth District.

Mr. Bigney said that he not only supports Senator Walsh's attitude on the League of Nations, but he called attention to the fact that he was the first candidate in this State to announce his intention to support the Senator for President.

'Army Training Means Health'---Edwards

Major-General Edwards regrets that compulsory military training is not to be passed in the country.

"It is a mistake according to my version of military training," exclaimed the general. "I do not know of a better training to take the kinks out of a young man than military training. Many a young man has been made what he is by this training.

"It does not mean militarism, by any means, and the average mind must be disabused of this.

"It means that every young man at a critical time in his youth, is going to be placed under discipline. That discipline means physical development. He will keep in good health by obeying what he has learned in a military camp in the shape of physical exercise.

WANT RIGHT TO PLANT GARDENS

Dorchester Residents Refused Wartime Privileges at Franklin Field

Whether or not Dorchester residents will be allowed to plant gardens in Franklin Field, as during the war, is to be threshed out with the Mayor by a group of families living in the Woodrow avenue section, led by Cornelius Desmond of 1st street and William Bowman of 18 Harwood street. At a meeting of about twenty residents, at the home of Mr. Desmond, plans were made to visit Mayor Peters in a body Tuesday.

According to Mr. Bowman, he went about a week ago to the headquarters of the Park and Recreation Department to seek permission to plant gardens as usual, and was refused. Residents say they have been permitted to cultivate gardens in Franklin Field for the past three years.

"The first year they paid the city $10 each and this city furnished the seeds. The succeeding years the garden owners furnished their own seeds. Many of them, according to their statement, already have purchased seed for this year's planting.

They contend that living conditions are more difficult than during the war, that the gardens are a highly successful experiment and especially beneficial to the children. The portion of Franklin Field devoted, they say, is otherwise little frequented and is not near any of the baseball fields.

Among residents of the section interested in the movement are Captain Lorenzo Merrill and Lieutenant James Tunney of the Fire Department; John Biddelle, Daniel Lucey, Michael Goodman and John McAllister.

Doctor Tells How to Strengthen Eyesight 50 Per Cent in One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

Philadelphia, Pa. Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored by the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says: "After trying it I, whose vision was so poor I could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully, but now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses.

Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, by all means take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

NOTE: Another prominent physician to whom the above article was submitted said: "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its component ingredients are well known to oculists and are specialties and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use by almost every family." It can be had in this city at all good druggists.—Advertisement.

FEUD HOLDS UP R. I. LIGHT BILL

Insurgents Halt Measure Until They Get Support for Another Project

Providence, April 13.—The passage of the daylight saving measure in Rhode Island apparently depends upon the outcome of a political feud between members of the General Assembly.

"We will pass daylight saving if you abolish the jury commissioner," is the cry of the insurgent members who railed the measure in the State senate after it had passed the House of Representatives.

The insurgents allege that the office of jury commissioner is costing the State $3,000 a year. They say that the selection of jurors should be left to the city government and town officials as before the creation of the jury commission.

Political leaders predict trouble, with daylight saving possibly held up unless the jury commission is ousted. Insurgent members of the Assembly are credited with enough votes to bother the party leaders.

JAMES BYRNE SUCCEEDS LATE MAJOR HIGGINSON

James Byrne of New York, a lawyer, is to succeed to the vacancy in the Harvard Corporation left vacant when Major Henry Lee Higginson died in November. Byrne has been elected a fellow of the university, and has accepted office.

The new fellow was born in Springfield in 1877, graduated with President Lowell in 1877, ranking high in his class, and holds a degree from the Harvard Law School received five years later. He was recently elected president of the Harvard Alumni Association, and is the first graduate of Catholic faith to be chosen for either of these positions of high standing at Harvard.

CATHOLIC COMMUNITY HOUSE TO HOLD DANCE

The Catholic Community House reunion and dance of the Church of Our Lady of Pompeii, of which Rev. Pasquale Di Milia is pastor, will be held in Paul Revere Hall tomorrow evening. The Community House, No. 25 Decatur street, is next door to the church and is under the supervision of Miss Catherine Delaney, formerly of the Shie board of charity.

MOTORMAN CUT IN CRASH WITH TRUCK

Sumner Erbenick of Norma road, Arlington, motorman of an Arsenal square, Cambridge, car of the Elevated, was severely cut about the face, hands and chest by flying glass when the car which he was operating was in collision with a motor truck in Watertown square.

This Frees Your Skin From Hair or Fuzz

(Toilet Tips)

The method here suggested for the removal of superfluous hair is quick and certain, and unless the growth is extremely stubborn a single application does the work. Make a stiff paste with some powdered delatone and water; apply this to the hairy surface and after about 2 minutes rub it off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. To avoid disappointment, be sure your druggist sells you delatone.—Advertisement.

THIS BABY HAD A BAD COUGH

But Father John's Medicine Relieved It After Others Failed.

I am sending a picture of my little girl, who has been troubled with a cough for a long time. I had tried lots of cough remedies. Nothing seemed to help her until I made up my mind to give her Father John's Medicine. I began giving her the medicine over two years ago, and it is very good for her. She will always take it when she has a cough.—(Signed) Mrs. J. Dumais, 144 Crawford St., Fall River, Mass.

A better proof of the value of Father John's Medicine for colds, coughs and as a body-builder can be given than the experience of thousands of mothers who have proven throughout the history of more than 50 years' success that Father John's Medicine is the safe medicine for every member of the family. Remember it is guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form.

NEAT COMEDY PRESENTED AT PLYMOUTH

By FRED J. McISAAC, Dramatic Editor.

"Not So Long Ago," a comedy by Arthur Richman, was presented at the Plymouth Theatre last night. The piece has had but a few performances before coming to Boston and very little was known about it. The cast contained no celebrated names. Going up there last night was like feeling in a grab bag.

What we drew out was a very dainty and fascinating comedy. Its atmosphere was the quaint '70's when women wore Grecian bends, or had them, and men sported lavender frock coats and cream colored trousers with stripes down the sides.

Even the plot was like one of those paper covered affairs that Laura Jean Libby used to write when she was a girl, all about the beautiful seamstress and the noble youth, the haughty mother and sister of the young man and the eccentric but loving father of the poor girl.

Mr. Richman's comedy, however, was distinguished by a vein of whimsicality which the fiction of the '70's conspicuously lacked, and the characterizations were so ingenious and so interesting that you could not help but be fascinated by them.

First there was the romantic heroine, the pretty little seamstress with her head full of dreams and a positively uncanny gift for telling white lies. Then there was her admirer, the travelling salesman, a most grotesque individual, and her two girl friends who bring in on every fib that dropped from her lips. And the eccentric old father, who apparently invented the first bicycle.

On the other hand, we had the hero who looked sentimental and wore wierdly cut garments of colors abhorrent to modern men. He had a mother who was socially ambitious, a sister who was a snob, and a girl friend in his own set who gushed and giggled and who had not returned his affection. All these characters were so clearly defined that it was like turning back the pages of history and taking a peep into the times of President Grant.

Although the company in "Not So Long Ago" does not contain many well-known names, I have rarely seen a piece so perfectly performed. Eva Le Gallienne was the most bewitching and adorable little prevaricator you can possibly imagine. The part might have been tailored for her, it suited her so completely.

And Sidney Blackmer, a youth who is a newcomer to Boston, proved to possess the skill and personality to make a role romantic which might easily be idiotic. Thomas Mitchell, as the travelling salesman, did some exceptional character work. You remember Mary Kennedy as the housekeeper like heroine of "Lombardi Limited." As the gushing belle of the seventies she has a role of quite a different sort and she does it equally well. George Henry Trader, as the father, Esther Lyon, Beth Martin and Gilbert Douglas are well cast.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—William Courtenay, as the star of "Civilian Clothes," drew a big house at the Park Square last night. The piece will be reviewed in the American on Wednesday.

ORPHEUM THEATRE—Murray Livingston headed a most attractive bill at Loew's Orpheum Theatre yesterday, offering his protean classic, "The Dreamer." He has rare ability as a character artist and was accorded a hearty welcome. His offering was out-of-the-ordinary and here the remarks of a big hit. Al H. White & Co., also scored heavily in their one act comedy, "The Mirror." Charles Gerard, the "Piano Friend" offered sonalogues and pianologues of a decidedly pleasing variety.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—A fine bill was offered at Loew's Columbia Theatre yesterday, headed by Gladys Brockwell in "The Devil's Riddle," which afford her rare opportunities for her excellent emotional work, and Corrine Griffiths in "Deadline at Eleven," which gives this petite star a far different role than any in which she has heretofore appeared.

PARK THEATRE—Priscilla Dean, in a gripping story of the Golden Horn, "The Virgin of Stamboul," features this week's bill at the Park Theatre. It is an interesting picture. Written by H. H. Van Loan and produced at an estimated cost of $500,000, the picture is one long to be remembered. The story centres about a beggar girl on the streets of Constantinople, an American soldier of fortune and an all-powerful shiek of the Arabian desert. Miss Dean is supported by a well-balanced cast. The picture is well-staged and directed and holds interest throughout.

GORDON'S OLYMPIA — Katherine Agnew MacDonald, adjudged the most beautiful woman in the world in sixteen beauty contests, perhaps has many feminine admirers who claim resemblance to her than any other star in the motion picture world. At least, that is the claim of the charming actress, who was seen in her latest First National starring vehicle, "The Turning Point," at Gordon's Olympia last evening.

SCOLLAY SQUARE OLYMPIA — "Old Lady 31," a superb picturization of that quaint and amusing play by Rachel Crothers, was shown on the screen at the Scollay Square Olympia yesterday. Large and enthusiastic audiences delighted in the clever character portrayal given by Emma Dunn, who is starred in this Metro screen version of the drama which has enjoyed phenomenal success on the speaking stage under the management of Lee Kugin. The ending is a happy one, but it would rob it of some of its tang to relate it here. Emma Dunn, who for a number of years has been famed as a delineator of "mother" roles, gives a delightful performance of Angie, who although childless is continually "mothering" her spoiled and improvident mate. Miss Dunn created the part of Angie in the New York production of the play.

UPHAM'S CORNER STRAND—"Pollyanna," the delightful character of the book and stage, came to the screen of the Upham's Corner Strand last evening with Mary Pickford in the title role, and from both a humorous and sentimental viewpoint, it was an absolute triumph, for it carried with it a really cheerful philosophy of sunshine and gladness.

Coming Events

SHUBERT THEATRE—"Fifty-Fifty," a new musical comedy, which has scored a remarkable hit at the Comedy Theatre, New York, comes to the Subert Theatre, beginning its engagement with a holiday matinee, Patriots' Day, April 19. It was written by William Gillette, and adapted by Margaret Michael and William Long.

THREE PERFORMANCES ONLY OF TECH SHOW

Despite the fact that the student management has endeavored to make arrangements for additional performances, and that, owing to the tremendous sale, but few seats remain, the faculty of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has decreed that there will be but three performances of "Patsy," the twenty-second annual Tech show.

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE—"The Confession," offered this week at the Bowdoin Square Theatre, is a gripping story of the Canadian Northwest written in seven thrilling reels with a wealth of atmosphere and a strong heart interest that holds the audience from the start.

"HONEY GIRL" MOVES TO MAJESTIC

"Honey Girl," after a notably successful seven weeks at the Park Square Theatre, took up a new abode —regrettably for only a brief run— at the more spacious Majestic Theatre, last night. This charming musical comedy, with a distinctively Leslie Stuart touch to it, is making friends so fast that all who desire to see or hear it will scarcely be accommodated in what remains of its limited Boston run.

"Honey Girl" appears at its new home in new attire, the nets being those made for its postponed New York opening. Otherwise it remains unaltered. Based on Henry Hiosson's play "Checkers," the show is an excellent presentation of something seldom seen nowadays—a musical comedy with a real plot. The lines are clever, songs as snappy as have been heard in a long time, while the dancing and chorus features are novel and fascinating.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

HAIR GROWN ON MR. BRITTAIN'S BALD HEAD BY INDIANS' MYSTERIOUS HAIR GROWER

My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. As experts said that as he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth. Yet now, at an age over 60, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs.

At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair tonics, scalp specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian "medicine man" who had an elixir that he asseverated would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amusement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days.

Many men and women, also children, have reported satisfactory results from Kotalko.

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

My honest belief is that hair roots rarely die even when the hair falls out through dandruff, fever, excessive dryness or other disorders. I have been told by experts that often when hair falls out the roots become imbedded within the scalp, covered by hard skin, so that they remain for a time like bulbs or seeds in a bottle which will grow when fertilized. Shampoos (which contain alkali) and hair lotions which contain alcohol are enemies to the hair, as they dry it, making it brittle. Kotalko contains those elements of nature which give new vitality to the scalp and hair.

Soft Corns, Hard Corns—"Gets-It" Gets 'Em All!

No Corn Can Withstand "Gets-It"—Peals 'Em Off Painlessly

Why "monkey" around with various corn experiments? If you don't want that corn, just put a few drops of "Gets-It" on and be done with it. Pain stops on the instant—corn gone in a hurry.

Corns and "Gets-It" Can't Live Together

"Gets-It" discourages corns—makes 'em let go and loosen up so they lift off, root and all, without your even feeling it. A few drops does the business any time of any day or night. "Gets-It" dries instantly, so your hose and shoe can go right back on. It takes but a few moments to doom a corn with "Gets-It," and there's no more hurt left in it after a few drops have landed on that corn.

Why stand another twinge? What's the use of suffering? It's time you showed that corn who is boss. So show it with "Gets-It," the painless, quick corn getter that knows no such thing as failure.

"Gets-It," the only sure, guaranteed money-back corn remover, costs but a trifle at any drug store. Mfd. by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

Loses "Store" Teeth In Lunchroom

Business in a certain "one-arm" lunchroom on Summer street was suspended for nearly half an hour today while the employes engaged in an earnest search for a set of "store" teeth, removed by one of the guests while eating, and inadvertently carried away by a "bus" boy.

Soiled dishes and napkins were overhauled by the employes, while the unfortunate owner of the teeth raged. When the teeth failed to turn up the guest departed hurriedly, leaving his coat and hat behind.

THIEVES SECURE $462 IN LOOT

Roxbury Apartment Robbed of Liquor, Jewelry and Clothing

A choice assortment of liquors, upon which the owner placed an astonishingly low value, together with jewelry, clothing and other articles, all valued at $462, were stolen from the apartments of Nathan Fish, No. 26 Wabeno street, Roxbury, according to the police.

The robbery was committed during the absence of Mr. Fish and his family, entrance being effected into the second floor apartments by means of a rear window on a porch.

Mr. Fish told Sergeant Herton of the Dudley street station that the thief or thieves had taken two quarts of champagne, which he valued at only $6; two quarts of alcohol, $10; two quarts of gin, $4; a quart of cocktails, $2; one bottle of rye, $2; two quarts of whiskey, $10.

The other loot included a man's silk shirt, $2; scarf and muff, $300; lady's hunting case watch, $25; bracelet, $15; lady's handbag containing $4 in cash, all valued at $17; pair of women's shoes, $10; silverware, $45, and a handbag, $15.

BENSON CALLS FOR BIG FLEET

Head of Shipping Board Wants American Boats Run by Americans

New York, April 12.—Rear-Admiral Benson, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, in officially opening the Marine Exposition at Grand Central Palace, told steamship men that only by close co-operation with the Shipping Board could security of the American merchant marine be assured.

He urged them all to stand together against foreign competition, and declared it vital to commercial development of the country that an independent communication be established with the principal cities of the world, free of foreign censorship.

While he made no direct reference to Admiral Sims, many took his declaration of all-Americanism as a fling at Sims and applauded loudly. The admiral said:

"I'm not anti-this or anti-anything, but if there is a drop of blood in my veins that is not purely American I wish somebody would come along and take it out.

"I will do everything within my power and if you think my policies are not the best don't be afraid to bring about my recall. We will be open for criticism.

"We must have none but American officers and seamen on our ships.

"Although it looks some what difficult just now to bring that about, I feel that the time is not far distant when we will get all the Americans necessary to make everything—ships, officers and crews—all American.

"Every dollar in our shipping must be an American dollar.

"One of the principal things we must look for is the development of an independent system of communication, one that can be used by every American business man, one that will be independent of all others, one that will reach to all parts of the world without being subject to the supervision of a censor or any other power."

ISOLATE 114 SOLDIERS AT SPRINGFIELD ARMORY

Springfield, April 12.—One hundred and fourteen soldiers of the United States Armory guard have been quarantined. Two cases of scarlatina have been discovered. The sick men are members of a detail of recruits just received from Maine. The quarantine does not affect the shops.

PEDLER WHO STRUCK WOMAN APPEALS FINE

Samuel Lookner, a pedler, residing in the West End, was arraigned in Roxbury Court before Judge Hayden today, charged with assault on Beslie Levison, proprietor of a store at No. 127 Harold street. Lookner was found guilty and ordered to pay an aggregate fine of $35. He appealed.

The Easiest Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Advertisement.

GERMANS SLAY AMERICAN

De Mott of New Jersey Shot Down During Alleged Attempt to Escape

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND.
Boston American Staff Correspondent
(Special Cable Dispatch. Copyright, 1920.)

Berlin, April 12 (Monday night, 8:30).—Paul De Mott, a young American of Paterson, N. J., captured near Dinslahn, in the Ruhr district, with several Italians, was a medical investigationists by the German Reichswehr, tried and sentenced to death by a drum-head court-martial, has been shot.

A singular feature—though it may have no particular significance—is that DeMott appears to have been shot a few hours after Captain Gascoin (McCarthy) of the American general staff and myself learned of De Mott's capture and court martial sentence when we were at Wesel.

The fact that he was an American and was held there under death sentence, which was suspended by the government's orders that no drumhead courtmartial death sentences were to be carried out until approved by President Ebert, was first told in my dispatch to Universal Service from Wesel Saturday and published Sunday.

General Kabisch, commanding that sector, brought De Mott's case to our attention, submitted the young man's passport and other papers to us and asked if we could tell him whether they were genuine and whether the sentenced man was really an American.

Today, upon my return to Berlin, I followed up De Mott's case. I went first to the Ministry of Defence and then to the chancellor's palace to ascertain whether the courtmartial papers had been sent to Berlin for review and approval by President Ebert, and what was going to be done.

To my astonishment I was regretfully informed that De Mott had been shot, and that Herr Paul, in charge of the American division of the Foreign Office, had at noon called upon United States Commissioner Ellis Loring Dresel and expressed the German government's keenest regrets.

French Officers Fear Vengeance of Germany

By International News Service.

London, April 12.—The Wolff Bureau, the official news agency of Germany, publishes details of a secret meeting which the French officers in the occupied zone are reported to have held at Mayence on April 9, when it was stated that "the annexation of Frankfort, Dusseldorf and the Ruhr district was necessary," according to a dispatch from Amsterdam today.

The Telegram further quoted the Wolff Bureau as saying the officers advocated the creation of a strong buffer state between Prussia and France, and that to prevent a war of revenge Germany should be split up into five separate republics. France, it was said, must support the movement of the German independents.

PELLETIER ASKS FOR $2,000 SALARY INCREASE

District Attorney Pelletier today urged the Senate Ways and Means Committee to take favorable action on the bill to increase his salary from $8,000 to $10,000. The bill also provides raises for his four assistants from $4,000 to $5,000 and the two deputy assistants from $2,800 to $4,200. He asked that the deputies be placed in the same class with the assistants, which would mean a salary increase of 78 per cent.

CALAIS MAYORALTY FIGHT GOES TO COURT

Calais, Me., April 13.—Defying the protest of one of the two Democratic Aldermen, Mayor Percy L. Lord, claiming that he had been elected by one vote, was inaugurated for a second term. Frederick V. Pickard, his Democratic opponent, who claims that he was elected by a majority of from one to three votes, has petitioned the Supreme Court to decide who is the rightful winner of the Mayoralty contest.

DRIVEN TO STREET BY FIRE IN BACK BAY

Members of several families were driven to the street today by a fire in the four-story brick apartment house at No. 12 Hemenway street, Back Bay. The blaze, which started in a paper compressor in the basement, was confined to the lower part of the house. The flame spread to the partitions before discovery. Smoke spread through the building. The damage was estimated at less than $400. The building is owned by E. L. Sturtevant.

GIRL WHO TOOK POISON EXPECTED TO RECOVER

Edna F. Vigo, nineteen, of Revere, who drank poison following a quarrel with her father over an Everett young man, will recover, according to the police. The girl is at the Frost Hospital. Miss Vigo, who lives on School street, Revere, was taken to task by her father after he had intercepted a letter which she wrote to Frank Bisiuk of Chelsea street. It is then said that she drank a small quantity of cyanide of potassium in milk.

"SALLIES" TO MOVE HUT FROM COMMON

The war service of the Salvation Army hut on the Common has been completed. It will be moved to Canton where it will be used this Summer as one of the cottages of the Army's fresh air camp for needy children. The registration books show that more than 31,000 soldiers, sailors and marines made use of the building.

Trojan Scarfs

The biggest hit we ever made in the neckwear line was made with the Trojans we had last season.

After an absence of some weeks, Trojans are now back on the market, and again we can accommodate the man who wants one or more of these wonderful scarfs.

They're made of a mixture of silk and wool—pinproof and wrinkle-proof. The patterns are printed in such subdued rich effects, making as handsome a scarf as we've ever seen.

They're remarkable for their durability, too. With the exception of the better grades of knitted ties, there's nothing that will outwear a Trojan.

Scarfs of identically the same cloth are being sold around Boston for $3 each. The Kennedy price is

MUGGSY AND DOWNEY PULL BLOOMER AT COMMONWEALTH

FORMER COULD NOT FIGHT; LATTER WOULD NOT

By JACK CONWAY.

Kayo Muggsy and Battling Downey joined the Eddie Fitzsimmons Club when they took part in one of THOSE THINGS at the Commonwealth A. A.'s show. Referee Phil Power proved he is a courageous and honest official when he declared the affair "no contest."

In the second round Power stepped between the boxers and halted the mill long enough to announce that all bets were off. He declared after the miserable exhibition that it was apparent at this stage of the battle.

Muggsy, according to a tip which was broadcast throughout the city several hours before the contest, was to win somewhere between the third and fifth rounds. The East Boston kayo star was originally booked to meet Battling Al Thomas. This match was called off, on the pretext that Thomas had a death in his family.

Thomas could easily stop Muggsy in a couple of rounds if the bout were fought on its merits. Maybe this had something to do with the cancellation. Another interesting thing about the Muggsy-Thomas match was that the checks posted as forfeits for appearance came back from the bank where deposited with the notice "no account."

After the withdrawal of Thomas Downey was rushed forth as the man of the hour. He was to be the gentle lamb led to the slaughter.

Instead of doing any kayoing, Muggsy proved once more that he is about the biggest boxing joke we have had in this section of the country in a long time. If there was an agreement for Muggsy to win, it was absolutely impossible for Downey to carry out his part of the contract. Muggsy was very tired after the first round.

Downey could not help but take the lead in the opening chapter. In the second session Downey hit Muggsy almost at will. Toward the later part of the stanza he let up on his opponent when he had him in poor condition. Then Referee Power called all bets off.

The third round saw Muggsy backing away and apparently helpless. Instead of trying to score with solid blows, Downey would rush into a clinch or let drive with a weak left jab. As for Muggsy, he was too tired to lift his arms.

With both boxers doing the brother act in the fourth session, Referee Power very wisely sent them to their corners. He stated he would give them one more chance. Muggsy, however, apparently figured he had inflicted enough punishment on the dear old public for one evening for he left the ring. Downey was also on his way to the dressing room in short order.

The directors of the club didn't make any announcement. Neither did they even threaten to return the assessments paid by the 2,000 or more fans who had expectations of witnessing a real contest. Probably the fans will take their revenge by forgetting where the Commonwealth Club's quarters are located.

Muggsy should lay his gloves on the shelf. He has no chance against a first class fighter, while he can't even beat a third rater. The victories he has scored in the ring have in almost every case been frame ups.

Dan Morgan ought to instruct Eddie Fitzsimmons to dust off two more chairs in the "Down and Out Club" for a couple of new candidates have won their right to membership.

Play for the Longwood Tennis Bowl will begin July 19 at the Chestnut Hill courts. The trophy is now held by National Champion William M. Johnson, who needs but one more victory to give him permanent possession.

Yokel-Ajax Mat Bout Is Postponed

The match between Mike Yokel and Toney Ajax, which was to have been held at the Grand Opera House on Thursday night, has been postponed so as to give Promoter Tuohey clear headway for the big holiday show which is to be given on the night of April 19 in Mechanics Building. The suggestion for the postponement came when Yokel asked for more time to train, and drifted into Tuohey's plans nicely. It is likely that the bitch over the program for the 19th will be straightened out today, as Tuohey's western representative is to meet Earl Caddock and thresh the affair out today.

BOYLE TO BOX DEFOE BEFORE LOWELL FANS

Pinney Boyle will get the big test Thursday night at the Crescent A. C. of Lowell, when he climbs through the ropes with Billy Defoe. Since Boyle's recent comeback, he has persistently requested the matchmaker to get DeFoe for him. If Boyle wins over DeFoe, who is going better today than ever, his one ambition is to take Britt's measure. When he boxed Britt to a draw two months ago, he was satisfied when right, he has nothing to fear from any lightweight in the country.

DeFoe will finish his training tomorrow afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. in Lowell. The largest gathering of fans ever seen in Lowell will be at the ringside when Boyle and DeFoe climb through the ropes.

KILOURY TO REFEREE AT WRESTLING CARNIVAL

Joe Kiloury, whose refereeing proved so satisfactory in his past appearance here, has been engaged by Promoter Tuohey to be the third man in the ring for the big wrestling carnival in Mechanics Building on Monday night. Paddy Hehir, the regular referee, is still confined to his home in Worcester, convalescing from an attack of pneumonia.

Tuohey expects to be able to announce the holiday program today, as his western representative will confer with the men whom Tuohey has in mind for the main event.

BOSTON WOMEN IN SEMI-FINALS

Misses Marion Zinderstein and Edith Sigourney Win in Pinehurst Tennis

Pinehurst, N. C., April 13.—William Tilden, 2nd, Harold Throckmorton, Samuel Hardy and S. Howard Voshell became the semi-finalists in the United North and South tennis tournament here, with Miss Marion Zinderstein and Miss Edith Sigourney of Boston, Miss Florence Ballin and Mrs. H. F. Briggs occupying the corresponding brackets in the women's singles.

The men's doubles also reached the semi-finals, the survivors including Tilden and Shafer, Voshell and Hardy, and Hildwell and Throckmorton, and good progress was made in the women's doubles and the mixed event.

"...So I switched to Ricoro—which travels de luxe at excursion rates."

"It was a man who got on at Chicago", writes the conductor of the Wall Street Limited. "I came around to collect the fares, and he was much distressed to learn that he'd lost both ticket and pocketbook.

"Well, I could see he was all right, and when he asked if he could send a check from his New York office, I readily agreed. He thanked me and gave me his card and a couple of cigars.

"Later in the evening I lighted one of the cigars—and Great Northern Railroad!—it was sure great! I dug up his card again and remembered that he was an official of the United Cigar Stores Company.

"I met him next morning, and told him that having noticed his business connection, I understood how he could give away such great smokes.

"'You mean those Ricoros!' he laughed, 'Why, you can buy 'em for a dime in every United Cigar Store in the country!'

"I don't know which pleased me most—the cigar, or the news that I could buy Ricoro for 10c in every town on the line!"

Sooner or later you'll discover Ricoro. You'll discover Ricoro's bland and balmy tropic fragrance—and you'll settle down to it for life. RED SOX WIND UP PRELIMINARY SEASON WORK IN HOME PARK

SCHANG IS NEEDED BADLY

Boston Pitching Staff Must Be Handled by Experienced Receiver This Year

The final grind of the preliminary campaign is history for the Red Sox. Today, on Fenway Park, they had their last lengthy practice session and tomorrow will confine their efforts to discussing ways and means to conquer the mighty Walter Johnson backed by the rejuvenated Senators.

For, if there be a single certainty in baseball, it is that the mighty Walter will pitch the opener for Washington. "Old Fox" Griffith would as soon think of swapping his franchise for a yellow dog as sending his team into the season's initial fray behind any other pitcher than his peerless right hander.

Who will hurl for Boston is not so certain, but Russell looks to be the most likely choice. He has been steadier in the Spring practice contests than most of his fellow hurlers and his coolness under fire is almost certain to dictate his choice.

Of course, Joe Bush is a possibility, but only a possibility. "Bullet Joe" is nursing a lame arm back into shape, and it is hardly possible that Barrow will take any chance of setting back one of the "aces" he is figuring on to keep the Red Sox up there fighting.

Schang Should See Light Now

The fact that Miller Huggins has publicly declared himself about having no place for Wally Schang on the Yankee roster, should furnish a few crumbs of comfort for the Red Sox supporters. Schang, when he demanded that salary increase of $3,000 had his weather eye cocked at the New York club, that haven of refuge for all disgruntled Red Sox stars, but as he can no longer entertain delusions on that score, he should not be so difficult to reason with.

Whatever may be the feelings of Owner Frazee or Manager Barrow toward their former backstop does not at all lessen the fact that Schang is needed and needed badly by the Boston pitchers. Many of Barrow's flingers are of the "promising" sort, the kind that needs a good, experienced man back of the bat to steady them down and transform them into really big leaguers.

Such a catcher, with all due respect to the present hard working members of the Boston American receiving department, is not with the club at present.

WILLIE CORBETT WINS FROM DAN McCORMACK

Willie Corbett of Somerville defeated Dan McCormack of East Boston in the twelve-round main bout before the Union Athletic A. C. of Somerville.

Frank Ryan of Everett stopped Young Ramsey of Weymouth in the fourth round of the semi-final. Leo Gregory, known as the "Fighting Fireman" of Medford, whiped Patsy Green of Cambridge in six rounds. Young Stone of Somerville won in two rounds from Young Trainor of Somerville, the referee stopping the affair.

GOULD BEATS CUTTING AND RETAINS HIS TITLE

BRAVES IN FINAL WORKOUT

Return of Maranville Has Peppered Up Whole Team; Fillingim or Eayres to Pitch

New York, April 13.—The Braves wore a weary but hopeful lot when their last practice session ended before the beginning of the big league season tomorrow. Rabbit Maranville, who had been absent at his Springfield home for a day or two, was present, and livened up the workout a whole lot.

Maranville gives every evidence by his playing that he is in for a big year, and he is putting more heart into his work than he did last season. When the Rabbit is around the whole Braves' infield looks like a different combination from what it is during his absence. Horace Ford is a capable understudy, and all that, but he does not keep the other players going in the same way as does the peppery field leader of the Braves.

In fact, the only dark cloud on the Braves' horizon is the indisposition of Hank Gowdy. The Braves' backstop has an exceedingly sore finger on his throwing hand and it is doubtful if he can get back into the game for a week or more. Wilson will go in the first game and catch either the deliveries of Dana Fillingim or Eddie Eayres. The former is in great shape but, if it is at all dark tomorrow, Stallings will send in his portside flinger, being well aware of how hard the Giants find southpaw offerings to hit in the long shadow cast by the Polo Grounds.

The Braves' workout today followed a lengthy skull practice at which every player was present and the strength and weakness of the Giants was mulled over in minute and particular detail. When the Braves go out to do battle tomorrow they will have three or four alternative plans of action, depending upon whether they face right or left-handed pitching and whether the day is bright or dark, cool or summerlike, grand stand.

Just whom McGraw will select to do the hurling is not known but from the present outlook it seems as though his choice lies between Fred Toney and Jess Barnes, the former Braves' hurler. Both showed a whole lot in the series with the Red Sox and are seemingly a little more fit than any of the other pitchers.

PAL MOORE HERE TO BOX DALY

Boys Meet in Twelve-Round Battle at Triple A Tonight; Two Ten-Rounders Also

By RINGSIDE.

Memphis Pal Moore, who proudly boasts that he has a decision to his credit over Jimmy Wilde, took in the sights along Tremont street today. He came to our fair city for the express purpose of handing Frankie Daly of New York a setback in their twelve-round bout at the Armory A. A.'s show at Mechanics' Building tonight.

Moore is rated high in the flistic records. The Dixie Flyer has been an active campaigner in the ring and has piled up even more victories than Babe Ruth has home runs to his credit. Of course Moore's greatest triumph was his victory over Jimmy Wilde.

English sports could hardly believe that the doughty American scrapper had put the well-known skids under their idol. They doubted it, as a return match, and, English fashion, Wilde won on points. Apparently Wilde sincerely did very sure he is a better boxer than the lad from Memphis, as he has about as much desire to enter a ring with Moore again as the Sox and Giants have of repeating their geographical tour of America.

Pair of Ten-Rounders for Good Measure

So that everybody will be happy, there will be a couple of ten-round matches. Bert Jones of Revere will clash with Young Chabas of Manchester, N. H., while Harry Martin of Providence will oppose K. O. Charley Elkins of the South End. There will also be an eight-round number.

Pine Tree A. C. Card Most Attractive

Frankie DeRice has arranged an attractive card for the Pine Tree A. C. of Portland for Wednesday night. Marty Collins will clash with Joe Burman in the feature event of the twelve rounds. Both boys are willing workers and should furnish a lively engagement. Jack Mansfield will battle six rounds with Tony Viera, while there will also be a couple of more preliminaries.

SATURDAY'S WINNER TO RACE NAVY CREW

Coach William Haines will send the winner of next Saturday's crew race against Annapolis, regardless of whether the choice falls to the varsity or second crew. The latter has been winning consistently, and as Coach Haines figures that the regulars are the better men for a four-mile race, he will not attempt to disrupt their boat but let the faster shell oppose the middies, April 24. Gardner Sutton, who has been rowing in a class crew, received orders to join the third crew.

SEEK NEW DATE FOR HARVARD SCHOOL MEET

The Harvard track management is endeavoring to change the date of its annual interscholastic track meet from May 22 to May 15. The schools interested are being approached. The reason for the change is the number of interscholastic meets on the 22d. Princeton, Yale, Brown and Dartmouth having announced meets recently.

Harvard Crew Work

Late today Coach William Haines is to take his first, second and third Harvard varsity crews on the Charles for a half hour's individual work. Sam Duncan, former Exeter captain, who rows a varsity oar, is out for a day with a boil, and Frank Lothrop has been advanced from the second crew to take his place.

MANY VETERANS IN MARATHON

Entries Show Patriots' Day Classic Not an Event for Youngsters Alone

"Our Youth we have but today,
We may always find time to grow old."
(Berkeley, 1684-1753.)

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Athletic almanacs fail to disclose "Herk" as a Marathon runner of any remarkable prominence. It is quite possible he never competed in such an event. Yet, so clearly does this ancient author catch the spirit of many of the entrants in the approaching holiday races it seems within reason to assume that—were he so situated—he might be found next Monday dragging aching feet over the Ashland-to-Boston course, or, astride a bicycle, accompanying one of the runners.

For a decade or more wide comment has been made of the perennial practice of Peter Foley of Winchester, who, despite his close approach to the biblical age of three score and ten, announces each year he is as young and as spry as ever, and proceeds to celebrate succeeding birthday anniversaries by romping over the twenty-six mile stretch of dirt and macadam covered by participants in the annual American Marathon run.

JUST A FEW YOUNGSTERS.

Peter's case is considered a striking exception to the rule, and it must be admitted that Peter undoubtedly is the only man above sixty years of age who so employs his time on Patriots' Day.

But Peter is not the only man of advanced years who, on Monday, will jog the wearing, wearying thoroughfares connecting Boston with Ashland. No less than five of the men entered in the approaching Marathon run have passed the forty-year mark, and at least two of the five closely approach the half-hundred point in years.

The five are: Bill Kennedy; Sidney Hatch of Chicago; Mike Lynch of Washington, D. C.; A. Monteverde of Morristown, N. J., and Gragg Richards of New York. And, without exception, these athletic seniors can run to win and always can be counted upon to finish in excellent time, as is indicated by Bill Kennedy's victory in the 1917 run; Sidney Hatch's penchant for finishing within striking distance; Mike Lynch's habit of landing twelfth place or better, and Monty and Richards' ability to annually outrun fully one-half of the field in this great event.

True to the adage:

"Our Youth we have but today.
We may always find time to grow old."

each one of the five discloses a tendency to cheat Father Time when it comes to announcing his age.

28 AND STILL GOING.

Monteverde shyly admits he has passed his forty-eighth birthday. These men have followed long-distance running for the past twenty years, declare Lynch to be Monteverde's mentor.

Kennedy affirmed he was exactly thirty-eight when he competed in the 1918 event, and affirmed he was exactly thirty-eight when he won the event in 1917, and, in consequence, will be ejected that he will repair to Boston this week prepared to again announce that his thirty-eighth birthday has just been. In view of Hatch's record informs us he was winning Marathon races in 1904 and 1906, and that he was a seasoned long-distance performer when he made the trip to Athens with the American Olympic team in 1906.

And, as for Richards, the Harvard University directory shows him to have graduated from that institution eighteen years ago.

To employ the words of Samuel Johnson, "Fanting Time toils after them," but if you have any idea "Fanting Time" has overtaken a chance of catching them at this stage of their athletic careers, watch the bob-bonded Richards, Lynch and Kennedy. Lynch or Monteverde, or the younger-appearing, but equally aged Sidney Hatch in next Monday's Ashland-to-Boston Marathon.

URBAN'S SHOULDER HURT; OUT OF B. C. BASEBALL

Boston College received a setback on the diamond yesterday afternoon when Catcher Luke Urban reported to the doctor with an injured shoulder and arm. The opening game of the home season will be on Patriots' Day when Boston College will meet the fast University of Vermont nine.

HARVARD CLASS TRACK CAPTAINS ARE NAMED

Track captains for the interclass meet at Harvard were appointed by Coach Pooch Donovan as follows: Seniors, Burnham Lewis; juniors, Dennis O'Connell; sophomores, Richard Chute; freshmen, John Kennedy.

TAD'S TIDBITS

THE GREATEST FIGHTER HE EVER SAW

Dear Tad:

The movie game is my racket, but the boxing game my hobby. I missed the Cain and Abel quarrel, but have seen most of all them since and I want to name three fighters right here who make other ring stars look like tallow candles. My three are George Lavigne, Terry McGovern and George Dixon.

What would they be worth to a manager today? They were gold mines in the days of real fighters.

My greatest fighter is Lavigne; a real 133-pound lightweight; a blue-eyed, light-haired tiger. He was never in a fake; he never quit in his life; he never agreed to let a fellow stay, but was a fighter who was to be met on the square. His record shows his worth. One night I saw him stop Jack Everhardt. I was speechless with admiration. What a fighter he was! I saw him break Walcott's heart at Maspeth in the fight that never will be forgotten.

I saw him fight Frank Erne at Buffalo with only one shoe on. In the third or fourth round of the go the Kid lost the sole of his left shoe. His seconds tried to get him another, but none would fit. He fought until his sock wore off and then kept on with his bare foot cut and bleeding from the rosin. His seconds had to wash the rosin out of the cuts at the end of each round, but Lavigne fought as though he had felt slippers on. Wasn't he some fighter?

How about McGovern? Here's another of my stars. Wasn't he a dude the day he tipped Pedlar Palmer over? Wasn't he great against Erne? Didn't he show the lion heart in his fight with Oscar Gardner Then George Dixon, "the chocolate drop." Was there ever a left like his? A sweet sweeper that was! His win over Jordan was a masterpiece. His defeat by McGovern showed the stuff he was made when he climbed up Oscar's legs after being knocked cuckoo?

Even when he was in and Tommy Murphy was a comer he knocked Murphy so stiff that Tommy couldn't tell light from dark for two hours. In the 10th round it was so one-sided that "Big Tim" Sullivan begged the referee to stop it. Dixon almost cried as he begged to fight on. He did and lost by a K. O.

TAMMANY YOUNG.

Canada Cal's Chirps

"Stay your cheers until the back counties vote is counted," is a free translation of "Don't begin to holler until you're out of the woods."

That basement restaurant whose street sign advertises "A Cup of Coffee and a Roll Downstairs for 10c" might do a rushing business if its cup of coffee were guaranteed to be of such a nature as to produce a roll downstairs.

Clergymen are agitating to secure better pay. Hitherto they must have been simply laying up riches in heaven, with no chance to save anything but souls on earth. The average man's idea of the preacher seems to be that he is a favored mortal who already has what some men are minded to strive for—a four-hour day and a one-day week.

We wonder if the prohibs believe that in making the world wholly "dry" they will be giving mankind their just deserts.

Man is like the fruit on the tree. In the Autumn of life he is likely to drop off any time.

The prohibs contend that in a "dry" United States they have the greatest nation in the world—bar none.

DORCHESTER K. OF C. ORGANIZES NINE

The Columbus Club, K. of C. of Dorchester will be represented on the baseball field again this season. From the caliber of the candidates for the nine the success of this season should eclipse last years record which had two thirds of their games to the winning column.

Many former "pro" players and members of college lineups will be with the Columbus Club this season. The battery will probably consist of Ed Cotter, formerly of the Lewiston Club, on the New England league, and Al Ryan the last years swirler, for the mainstay of the pitching staff and Tom Corkery, a former member of the Lewiston Club doing the bulk of the receiving.

One Permit Only for Sunday Ball Game

Single permits only are necessary for each and every game of baseball played on Sunday afternoons, according to the ruling issued by Chairman Shea of the park and recreation board. Whether one permit allowed a contest between two teams, or whether it was necessary for each individual to have a permit, proved a puzzle to Sergeant John J. Mullen of the Roxbury Crossing Station last Sunday, and so the names of several individuals were taken at the Columbus avenue and Marcella street playgrounds as a precautionary measure.

HARVARD BASEBALL MANAGERS APPOINTED

Clifton P. Fordye of Little Rock, Ark., has been appointed manager of the Harvard freshman baseball team after an eight weeks' competition. Arthur W. Morse of Boston was made assistant manager. Robert E. Anderson, Jr., of Newton, Centre, interclass manager; Aldo R. Baisan of Brooklyn and George H. Johnson of Madison, Wis., second assistant managers.

FORMER HARVARD CAPTAIN LEADS UNION B. C. CREW

Harry Murray, captain of the 1915 crew at Harvard, has been elected to captain the Union Boat Club eight-oared crew. Murray rows bow, and is a splendid oarsman.

Harvard Nine Opens Season Tomorrow

Balked in their efforts to open the season Saturday on account of cold weather and bad grounds, the Crimson baseballers are hoping for better luck against New Hampshire State tomorrow.

Either Carl Harrison or Babe Felton will work against New Hampshire State, which has a strong pitching staff themselves.

Harrison is the speediest pitcher on the squad and uses a spit ball. Felton has wide curves and a deceptive drop ball.

Tom Gammack will probably be behind the plate, although there is a chance that Bob Lancaster may get the call.

The former's work so far has been a surprise and much better than during his two previous seasons with the varsity.

This Day in History—April 13, 1920

THIS is the anniversary of the birth, in 1743, of Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence and third President of the United States. The famous Declaration was adopted on July 4, 1776, and remains a classic document on which was founded the freedom of a nation. He died on July 4, 1826, the same day as Adams.

Setting the Thames on Fire

THE phrase, "He'll never set the Thames on fire," arose in connection with the temse, a corn sieve worked over the receiver of sifted flour. An active man often plied the temse so quickly as to set fire to the wooden hoop, but a lazy fellow would never set the temse on fire.

THE YOUNG DIANA

An Experiment of the Future

Story of Extraordinary Mystery, in Which the Heroine Holds Key to Youth and Beauty

By Marie Corelli

"IS it not enough," said Diana, conscious of her own "ranking" in that direction.

"Enough? No!—not half or quarter enough! Not for some women or some men—they demand more than this and they have a right to demand more) out of the infinite riches of the Universe, Love—or what is generally accepted under that name, is a mere temporary physical attraction between two persons of opposite sex, which lessens with time as it is bound to lessen because of the higher claims made on the soul—a painful thing to realize!—but we must not shiver away from truth like a child shivering away from its first dip in the sea, or be afraid of it. Lovers forget lovers, friends forget friends, husbands forget wives and vice versa—the closest ties are constantly severed——"

"You are wrong, Feodor—we do not forget!" said Madame Dimitrius, with tender reproach in her accents. "I do not forget your father—he is dear to me as lover and husband still. And whether God shall please to send my soul to heaven or to hell, I could never forget my love for you!"

"Beloved, I know!—I feel all you say—but you are an exception to the majority—and we will not talk personalities! I cannot"—here he laughed and kissed her hand again —"I cannot have my theories upset by a petite Maman."

He left the room then and Diana followed him. Once in the library he shut the door and locked it.

"Now you spoke of something in translations that seemed to call for my attention," he said. "I am ready to hear what it is."

Diana went to the table desk where she habitually worked, and took up some pages of manuscript, neatly fastened together in readable form.

"It is a curious subject," she said. "In the Assyrian originals it seems to have been called 'The problem of the Fourth, Sixth and Seventh, culminating in the Eighth.' Whether the Latin (rendering) truly follows the ancient script, it is, of course, impossible to say,—but while deciphering the Latin, I came to the conclusion that the Fourth, Sixth and Seventh were named in the problem as 'rays' or 'tones' of light, and the proposed culmination of the Eighth—"

"Stop!" exclaimed Dimitrius, in a strained, eager voice. "Give me your papers!—let me see!"

Superior Intelligence

She handed them to him at once, and he sat down to read. While he was thus occupied, her gaze constantly wandered to the small, scythe-like instrument mowing off the seconds in dots of flame as a mower sweeps off the heads of daisies in the grass. A curious crimson color seemed to be diffused round the whole piece of mechanism—an effect she had never noticed before, and then she remembered it was late in the afternoon and that the sun had set. The rosy light emanating from the instrument and deeply reflected in the crystal pedestal on which it was balanced, seemed like an after-glow from the sky—but the actual gray twilight outside was too pronounced and cold to admit of such an explanation.

Suddenly Dimitrius looked up.

"You are right!" he said. "This ancient problem demands my closest study. And yet it is no problem at all, but only an exposition of my utmost thought!" He paused—then: "Come here, Diana May!" he continued—"I may as well begin with you. Come and sit close beside me."

She obeyed. With his eyes fixed upon her face, he went on:

"You, as a woman of superior intelligence, have never supposed, I am sure, that I have secured your services merely to decipher and copy out old Latin script? No!—I see by your look that you have fully realized that such is not all the actual need I have of you. I have waited to find out, by a study of your character and temperament, when and how I could state plainly my demands. I think I need not wait much longer. Now this ancient treatise on 'Problems,' obscure and involved in wording as it is, helps me to the conviction that I am on the right track of discovery. It treats of Light. 'The problem of the Fourth, Sixth and Seventh,' with its 'ultimate culmination of the Eighth' is the clew. In that 'ultimate culmination' is the Great Secret!"

His Eyes Flashed

"Have the patience to follow me but a little," he continued. "You have sense and ability and you can decipher a meaning from an apparent chaos of words. Consider, then, that within the limitations of this rolling ball, the earth, we are permitted to recognize seven tones of music and seven tones of color. The existing numbers of the creative sum, so far as we can count them, are Seven and Five, which added together make Twelve, itself a 'creative' number. Man recognizes in himself Five Senses. Touch, Taste, Sight, Hearing, Smell but as a matter of fact he has Seven, for he should include Intuition and Instinct, which are more important than all the others as the means of communicating with his surroundings. Now the culmination of the Eighth' is neither Five nor Seven or Twelve—it is the close or cadence of the Octave —the end of the leading Seven—the point where a fresh Seven begins. It is enough for humanity to have arrived at this for the present—for we have not yet sounded the heights or depths of even the first Seven radiations which we all agree to recognize. We admit seven tones of music, and seven tones of color, but what of our seven rays of light? We have the 'violet ray,' the 'X ray'—and a newly discovered ray showing the working bodily organism of man—but there are Seven Rays piercing the density of ether, which are intended for the use and benefit of the human being, which are closely connected with his personality, his needs and his life. Seven Rays!—and it is for us to prove and test them all!—which is the very problem you have brought to my notice in this old Latin document. The Fourth, Sixth and Seventh, culminating in the Eighth.'"

He put the papers carefully together on the table beside him, and turned to Diana.

"You have understood me?"

She bent her head.

"Perfectly!"

"You recall the incidents of the first day of your arrival here?—your brief visit to my laboratory, and what you saw there?"

She smiled.

"Do you think I could ever forget?"

"Well!—that being so I do not see why I should wait," he said, musingly, and speaking more to himself than to her. "There is no reason why I should not begin at once the task which is bound to be long and difficult! My 'subject' is at my disposal—I am free to operate!"

He rose and went to an iron-bound cabinet which he unlocked and took from thence a small phial containing what appeared to be a glittering globule like an unset jewel, which moved restlessly to and from in its glass prison. He held it up before her eyes.

"Suppose I ask you to swallow this?" he said.

For all answer, she stretched out her hand to take the phial. He laughed.

Brave or Reckless

"Upon my word, you are either very brave or very reckless!" he exclaimed—"I hardly know what to think of you! But you shall not be deceived. This is a single drop of the liquid you saw in process of distillation within its locked-up cell —it has a potent, ay, a terrific force and may cause you to swoon. On the other hand it may have quite the contrary effect. It should revivify—it may disintegrate—but I cannot guarantee its action. I know its composition, but, mark you!—I have never tested it on any human creature. I cannot try it on myself—for if it robbed me of my capacity to work, I have no one to carry on my researches—and I would not try it on my mother—she is too old, and her life is too precious to me——"

"Well, my life is precious to nobody," said Diana, calmly. "Not even to myself. Shall I take your little drug now?"

Dimitrius looked at her in amazement that was almost admiration.

"If you would rather wait a few days, or even weeks longer, do not be answered. It will not persuade you to act of this kind in a hurry. For it is only the first test of many to come."

"And if I survive the first I shall be good for the last," said Diana, merrily. "So come, Doctor Feodor—give me the mysterious 'drop' of liquid fire!"

"Her face was bright with animation and courage—but his grew pale and haggard with sudden fear. As he still hesitated, she sprang up and took the phial from his hand.

"Diana! Let me hold you!" he cried, in real agitation—and he caught her firmly round the waist —"Believe me—there is danger!—But—if you will——"

"One, two, three and away!" said she, and taking the tiny glass stopped from the phial she swallowed its contents.

"One, two, three, and away!" it was, indeed!—for she felt herself whirled off into a strange, dark, slippery vortex of murderous cold—which suddenly changed to blazing heat—then again to cold—she saw giant pinnacles of ice, and enormous clouds of flame rolling upon her as from a burning sky—then, she seemed to be flying along over black chasms and striving to escape from a whirlwind which enveloped her as though she were a leaf in a storm—till at last no thought, no personal consciousness remained to her, and, giving up all resistance, she allowed herself to fall—down, down ever so far!—when, all at once a vital freshness and elasticity possessed her as though she had been suddenly endowed with wings, and she came to herself standing upright as before, with Dimitrius holding her in the strong grasp of one arm.

What's In a Name?

ETHEL is in itself a name, but it has so many suffixes as to seem almost a syllable itself. It is another of the Teutonic names which signify noble, and is derived from Aethel, the same prefix, which in High German is Adal, from which comes Adlaide. The only feminine form of this simple little name was Aethelthryth. Another, less complex, was Ediltrud.

Teutonic and Norse tradition seem to merge somewhere along the course of Ethel's history, for the splendor of the Valkyr lingers in the name. It was popular among the women of those early times because it signified the ideal woman of the period when "a resolute will and a strong hand were woman's best title to respect," as one writer puts it. Nowadays, Ethel shorn of her complexities, suggests a fluffily feminine name rather than an Amazonian ideal.

Saint Aethelthryth was a queen of the Amazon type who must have been a very uncomfortable sort of wife and who finally retired to a monastery. She was canonized as Saint Etheldreda. Her saintly name has come down to us with a small degree of popularity, but Etheldreta and Ethelfreda are much the favorites. Ethel is the most prevalent of all and stands alone as an independent name. It is not only pleasing, but possesses welcome brevity in contrast to other forms of the name.

Ethel should wear an agate if she wishes happiness and success. According to its promise, it will bring her the desire of her heart, give her courage and a dauntless will. Thursday is her lucky day and four her lucky number. The wild rose is her flower.

Looking Ahead

Mick Dougan was a widower "an' gettin' to be an ould man soon," and "thet it was toime he'd git married an' bring a wife home to make the place luk a trifle cheerful loike." Mick Junior was much engrossed with farming pursuits that he said "he hadn't toime to bliss hisself, much less luk fur a wife." Father: "Yez'll nawt let Anothir year go over yer head widout a wife?" Son: "Did yez nawt wait till the tay and sugar wore a bit cheaper?"

Art's Triumph

Mrs. Grummell entered a taxidermist's with a stuffed parrot in her hands. "Do you remember this bird you stuffed for me last Autumn?" she asked. "Well, the work was so badly done that the feathers are simply falling out." "Ah, madam," said the man, "that is a triumph of art! We stuff our birds so well that they moult at the proper season."

Bachelor Girl's Reflections

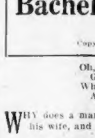
By HELEN ROWLAND

Copyright, 1919, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

Oh, don't you just love this "free verse"—
Good Heavens! It OUGHT to be free!—
Which sounds like a gargle—or worse,
And looks like a soup recipe!

WHY does a man always call it "business" when he talks economy to his wife, and "nagging" when she mentions it to him?

A clever girl can get about everything she wants in this life, but it takes a little pink-and-white thing with a dimple and one brain cell to make a man get it for her.



Most young men have the same attitude toward getting a divorce. They love to sit around and vaguely speculate on how it could be done, if they should ever care to do it.

The girl who wins and holds a man is not one who looks up to him as the sun of her existence, but the one who smiles down on him as just one of the footlights.

Half the time a man doesn't know whether to accept his wife's allusions to his sins before company as "honorable mention," an apology or a threat.

Nature revels in a thousand colors—the color of the sea, the color of the sky and the color of the rose. But black she has left for coquettes, widows—and the devil.

Sweet pet names of man for man:
Old Duffer—His best friend.
Good Old Scout—The man with a wine cellar
Simp, Hoob, Roscher, Sour Fish—The "other man," who calls on his girl.
Old Gargoyle—His boss.
Nut—The man who takes anything seriously.
Pinhead—The man who doesn't agree with him.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

Has Title and Estates

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am nineteen and belong to a good family. I am deeply in love with a man of forty-five, of foreign birth, who, owing to home troubles, came to this country under an assumed name. He is the son or an English nobleman, of high rank, and will, after the death of his father, return to his home and take the title and estates which are his by law. I am the only one, except a lawyer who represents him in this country, who knows his secret. He is highly educated and appears to be very fond of me. Do you think it is right for me to encourage him? ANXIOUS.

I THINK it would be highly risky for you to think of marrying this man without thoroughly investigating his record. Numbers of girls have been deceived by impostors claiming to have prospective titles and estates and who have proved to be thoroughly discredited men. The British consul in New York will no doubt know something of this man, if his claims are genuine, and I should certainly advise you to investigate his record thoroughly before proceeding further.

Fails to Keep Promise

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am so down-hearted and lonely that I just must write to you. I left the convent when I was fifteen and married a man twenty-nine. He never showed me any affection or consideration. Last year I met a student who was attending school here, and he told me he loved me. I left my home and went to work in his home town. He was twenty, and I am twenty-one. We were very happy, and he used to call every evening. I have now had my divorce and he refuses to see me any more because his friend said he should not marry me. Would it be proper for me to go to his home and demand an explanation?

B. V. T.

NO young man gives up a girl he really cares about on the advice of a friend, and I think the young student is using that argument as an excuse for not making good his promise. I do not see that you have any hold over him without going to court, and it is doubtful if you would win the case. Don't you think it would be better to try in future to avoid these desperate love entanglements? You have been married and divorced and been badly treated by a young man whom you regarded as your fiance, and you are only twenty-one. Why not to try to depend a little more on yourself for happiness and contentment? Try to be less the victim of your emotions.

A Devoted Parent.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am thirty-four. We have three children, the oldest twelve. My wife and I separated a year and a half ago, and six months afterward she filed a bill for divorce. The trouble was that she used to go out to dance halls and forget to come home. One time she stayed out for a week. Now the suit seems to be dropped and I am sending money every week to my wife and children, who are in another city. My wife has promised time and again to join me here so we can have our home and children together, but now she writes she does not care to. She did very wrong, but I have forgiven her, just for the sake of the children. Shall I stay here or go to see her? A FATHER.

SINCE it is your wife alone who is in the wrong, and you have forgiven her and wish to be with her again, I shouldn't think you would hesitate to go where she is. Isn't that the only way to regain the home life that you long for and the intimate relationship with the children? Your children are fortunate in their father's faithful affection, and I hope you may find happiness with them.

The Two Voices

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

A New Romance of American Life With Hugh Rodney, Son of a Rich Manufacturer, as the Hero

CHAPTER L.

Copyright, 1920, Star Company.

MRS. COURTNEY had delivered her edict. Mr. Rodney must be informed that Doris would never marry Hugh.

The mother's views had undergone a complete change since Doris was formally engaged to Ralph Norton. On the day following the girl's acceptance of him she had called upon Mrs. Courtney, had told her of his love for her daughter and had explained to the fond mother the state of his finances. His fortune was all that the most ambitious parent could wish for her child. Old Ralph Norton, for whom his boy was named, had left him the bulk of his fortune.

"You see, my father died before grandfather did, and I was an only child. So Doris will profit by all that I have. It shall be hers."

It sounds almost like a fairy-tale, the romantic widow reflected. Ralph would give up his bachelor-quarters and take a handsome apartment, or, better still, buy a house for Doris. How wonderfully becoming wealth and its accompaniments would be to the child!

"I will try to make her happy," Ralph was saying. "No man in all the world could love her better than I do."

The mother patted his hand affectionately. "My dear boy," she said, "I trust you completely. You have no mother. Let me be like a mother to you. For my part, I feel that I am gaining a son, not losing a daughter."

No More Foolishness

After this interview Mrs. Courtney told Ruth that the Rodneys must be advised of the state of affairs.

"I will have no more of this foolish uncertainty," the mother said. "I am, of course, sorry for Hugh, but Doris cannot be expected to marry every man who asks her.

"And she never loved Hugh—although he persuaded her into thinking that she did. But her heart is entirely Ralph's—and always will be."

Her mother regarded her sternly. "I did not catch that remark, Ruth, and perhaps it is just as well that I did not. I hope it was not something unkind about your sister."

Ruth did not reply.

"However that may be," the parent resumed, "please follow my wishes—or commands. It is neither fair nor quite decent, to my way of thinking, for the Rodneys to be ignorant of the truth. Matters between Doris and Hugh must be terminated at once and for all time.

"In a few weeks Doris's engagement to Ralph Norton will be announced. I hope no indiscreet or unkind remarks will be made by the Rodneys then."

"The Rodneys will say nothing then, never at any time," Ruth replied. "They regret Hugh's infatuation quite as much as you possibly can, mother, only they are too well-bred to show it."

No Envy

"That is all I wish to hear about the Rodneys!" she said sharply. "One would almost think that you envied your sister her happiness."

"I do not," Ruth said gravely.

"I should hope not! But I insist that you tell Daniel Rodney that the engagement with their son is broken and will never be renewed."

"Why cannot Doris write this to Mr. Rodney, if she does not want to tell him face-to-face?" Ruth argued.

"Because I will not have her subjected to the embarrassment of it," the mother objected.

"And what about my humiliation in confronting my sister's disloyalty?"

"That is another matter," Mrs. Courtney retorted. "Daniel Rodney has shown his preference for you and his disregard of Doris. Moreover, it is your fault that Hugh still considers himself engaged to your sister."

"Yes," the girl said softly. "I might all have been over by now—had he known the truth about Doris as soon as he came home."

CHAPTER LI.

ON the morning following her heated discussion with her mother, Ruth Courtney telephoned 46 Laura Rodney asking to be excused from calling on Hugh that afternoon.

"But," she added, "if I can see you and your rather for a few minutes this evening—without Hugh's knowing of it—I would like to do so. Can you spare me a few minutes of your time?"

"How formal and ominous that sounds!" Laura laughed. "Of course we will see you dear. I am certain that Dad has no engagement, and shall be at home all the evening. I shall tell Hugh that I am expecting a caller."

"Be sure not to intimate who it is."

"I will be sure not to," Laura promised.

All day the shadow of the coming interview rested on Ruth Courtney's spirit. Moreover, she missed her usual visit to Hugh.

GAYETY—There is a cracking good show at the Gayety Theatre this week, known to the burlesque world as Sam Howe's "Butterflies of Broadway." There is a company of eleven performers surrounded by a bevy of evenly sized chorus girls in a musical vehicle which was constructed for keeping the audience in good humor. It is seldom that two comedians such as Harry Cooper and Sam Howard are seen together with one burlesque show.

$150. In Eleven Awards—Every Day!

George Severne

14 Clarkson St., Dorchester, Mass.

Will be paid $100 for the "best last line" of

LIMERICK No. 57

The completed Limerick reads as follows:

Spring house-cleaning time has come,
And husbands are now very glum,
Suds and dust in the air,
And soap on the stair,
"Home sweet home," is all out of plumb.

Mr. George Severne of 14 Clarkson street, Dorchester, will be awarded $100 for writing the best last line to Limerick No. 57. Mr. Severne was born in New Brunswick 50 years ago. He is a carpenter by trade and is employed at the Harrison Square Foundry, Dorchester. He has lived in the Meeting House Hill section of Dorchester for more than twenty years. When informed of his award he gave a Boston American reporter the following statement:

"I have tried every Limerick that has appeared in the Boston American and I am certainly well pleased with results. I remember well when Mr. Hearst first started his paper in Boston and have been a subscriber to the American since then. I think the editorials are unequalled and that they had much to do with the overthrowing of the peace treaty on which I admire Mr. Hearst's stand."

10 next "best last lines" of No. 57 Limerick were written by

WILLIAM H. BLAKE, General Delivery, Gerveston, N. H.
MRS. R. E. GEE, 227 Highland Ave., Somerville, Mass.

GEORGE ERNEST ELLIOTT, 141 High St., Boston, Mass.
J. P. RAND, South Postal Station, Boston, Mass.

Each of whom will be paid $10 by the Boston American

RULES:

1. The Boston American is publishing a daily incomplete Limerick, and $100 will be paid for the "best last line" sent in by its readers completing Limerick. The ten next "best last lines" will each be awarded Five ($5.00) Dollars. This makes a total daily award of One Hundred and Fifty ($150.00) Dollars. In the event of more than one person sending in the same "best last line," similar awards will be made.

2. No one is barred from participating except employes of the Boston American and their families, who are absolutely barred. No one may send in more than one "best last line" to each Limerick.

3. The blank printed herewith is for the convenience of the readers and the Editors, but you do not have to use this particular blank.

4. Each Limerick appearing in the Boston American will have a number, and the "best last line" must be sent in a sealed envelope, by mail, addressed to "Boston American Limerick Department," P. O. Box 235, Boston Mass. On the outside of each envelope containing the "best last line" must be written or printed "Limerick No. ——." This is most important.

5. All "best last lines" must be received by the Limerick Department by 12 o'clock noon, four days after publication. Announcement of each award will be made in the Boston American one week after publication of each Limerick.

6. The Boston American reserves the right to make any change in or addition to these rules that may be deemed necessary for fairly and properly conducting the proposition, and its decision of the Boston American Limerick Editor on any question which may arise will be absolutely final, and the entering of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions and regulations now made or to be made.

Stocks Strong in New York; Money 7%; Sterling Exchange Weak

MIXED PRICES IN BOSTON

Movement on the Exchange Is Narrow; Heavy Tone to the Curb

Prices were lower on the Boston Stock Exchange when trading was resumed this morning, but they improved enough later to give the list the appearance of irregularity during the balance of the morning. The movement was narrow in either direction in the case of most issues. United Fruit and Punta Alegre sold at rec ord highs here as well as in New York. Highest, which was active, touched its year's highest. It was a quiet market when reviewed as a whole. Not much change was observed in coppers as a group. They were dull. North Butte was the leader in this class.

At their forefront the highest United Fruit and Punta Alegre were each up more than five points. Fractionally stronger stocks included North Butte, East Butte, Davis Daly, U. S. Smelting, Orpheum, Connor Co., Bighead and Gray & Davis.

Among issues to recede a point were Calumet & Arizona, Old Dominion, Boston Elevated and Swift & Co. Smaller losses were shown by American Telephone, Copper Range, Island Creek, United Shoe, Carson Hill, Simms Petroleum, Wickwire, Libby, Root & Van Dervoort and Eastern Steamship.

TRADING WAS LIMITED.

The curb market had a quiet opening, trading being at dull to the opening are some time. Black Hawk was the most active stock. It receded on the first transaction, but afterwards showed a gain. This market had a heavy tone, most issues in which there was business selling lower. Strong stocks at the opening included Mutual Trust, Red Warrior and Overseas Silver. Weak ones were Ton Ton Mines, Mexican Silver and Southwestern Miami.

At the end of an hour Black Hawk was up 2 cents at 58 cents; Midway 1 cent, at 61 cents, and White Oil at 8, at 58, while Simms Petroleum was off 2, at 28; Arizona Silver 1 cent at 34 cents, and Gulfport 2 cents, at 11 cents.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

March production of 10,340 pounds of copper ore by Bonanza is the lowest amount for a month this company has made as yet.

James J. Phelan has returned to Boston after an absence of two months. He visited Washington, Wheeling and Palm Beach.

The gross funded debt of the city of Boston on March 31 was $124,586,101, a decrease of $1,800 in two months. The net funded debt amounted to $80,839,437, a decrease of $66,000.

At the close of 1919 the United Profit-Sharing Coupon Corporation approximately $45,000,000 was equal to net for from $100 to $200 on its outstanding stock. Its stockholders are expecting an extra distribution in some form.

ATTRACTIVE FOREIGN BONDS

With present foreign exchange rates so favorable to the American dollar, there are offered rarely attractive bond issues, with a high rate of government guaranteed yield, available only in the aftermath of the war.

Measures That Would Cure Most of the Troubles and Tendencies Which Distress and Alarm Us Today

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage: to put public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.
(4) To elect Federal Judges, including Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
(5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

Wanted!--American Policy of Some Kind Toward Russia

It is publicly announced that the Russian commissioners on their way to England to negotiate the resumption of trade relations with the British are being carried thither with great ceremony and honor on board a British man-of-war!

In the meantime one of the committees of our United States Senate and two of the great departments of our Government are busily engaged in persecuting the Russian representatives in this country, while the rest of our Government waits upon Great Britain's pleasure to determine our policy toward Russia.

When the British have negotiated the most favorable terms for themselves with Russia and her nationals have planted themselves securely in the most strategic economic situations in the vast Russian Empire and the whole British army of commerce stands poised on the line ready for the word "go," while our business men are running about to learn what the rules of the race are to be, the British will say "go," and their nationals will have won the race for Russian trade before we even get started.

Throughout the war and during the period which has followed the war we have given a weak "me, too," to whatever policy Great Britain adopted with respect to Russia. We do not know by what legerdemain the British statesmen always paralyze American initiative when it finds itself in competition with the British. Whether the British system of government brings abler and more experienced men of affairs to the control of British public affairs, whether Americans are still provincial-minded and unconsciously hold the British statesmen in awe when dealing with them at short range, whether British statesmen are more vigorous defenders of their national interests than Americans, whether it is any one or all of these causes which prevents us from holding our own in dealing with British statesmen in matters of business, we do not know. But whatever the cause the result is sufficiently mortifying and expensive.

Lloyd George, the British Premier, has now taken the lead in suggesting a better treatment of the Russians who, like the Americans, saved France and England from destruction and whose people Britain, France and America have betrayed with a callousness equalled only by our betrayal of China in the Shantung deal.

We who ought to have been Russia's warmest ally and who went to war and sacrificed 300,000 of our young men to establish the right of self-determination, have co-operated with Britain and France in violating that right in Russia. We have given no proof or suggestion of our friendship to the Russians, and we now leave to farsighted British statesmen the first practical steps to reopen trade with Russia.

We have a new Secretary of State. Bainbridge Colby is an American liberal. We have great confidence in him. We hope that he will be able to set a new course for our ship of state in the stormy waters of international intrigue, and that we shall in the future, under his guidance, follow a course by our own reckoning and not by false beacon lights which European intrigue sets up on murky shores to wreck our policies.

There Is No Just Alternative to a Generous Bonus

Representative Griffin, of the Twenty-second New York District, has introduced in Congress a bill to return all war risk insurance premiums and allotments deducted from service pay, averaging $160 to each veteran. Its total estimated cost would be $657,225,200.

Mr. Griffin contends that the Government ought to insure a life put at hazard in its service, just as it would insure a ship. And since the dependent allotment was made necessary, not by the soldier, but by the Government in drafting him, the same rule of liability ought to apply to it as to the hazarded life.

In brief, it is held to be wrong to require the soldier to assume the risk of his calling. That risk, Mr. Griffin argues, should be assumed wholly by the Government. Repayment of insurance premiums and allowance deductions would, he thinks, be straight justice, not gratuity.

Quite true. The bill's intent thus far is admirable. It has, however, another declared motive—to be in lieu of any bonus. But after the returned veteran had received his insurance money and his deducted pay, the Government would still be in debt to him for having taken him into its army or navy at low pay, with the military hazards, while it permitted other men to earn high pay in safe employment at home.

This discrepancy is not arguable. It vitiates every protest of the man at home against extra compensation for the man who fought. By no rule of justice can it be said that the safer man should have the high pay while the man who ran the great risks and endured the severe hardships must be content with low pay or be branded as unpatriotic if he objects.

Representative Griffin's bill has genuine merit as a measure in addition to the bonus bill, but as a substitute it is inadequate.

CONTROL YOUR TEMPER

Isn't it probable that you scold your children so much that they pay no heed to your words?

A little six-year-old said to her father: "You say so much I can't remember it all, and that's the reason why I don't always mind, Daddy."

You lose your temper too easily, so why expect the children to evidence any better control.

All children string their playthings from one end of the house to the other, forget to put away their rubbers or remove them, break dishes and cannot be trusted to carry out a schedule.

Youngsters have a little world of their own, as interesting to them as your own and just as important from their point of view.

Years of training have taught you the importance of regularity.

You knew before you were married that it was going to be a lot of trouble and worry and work to raise a family—but they are worth every moment of anxiety and inconvenience.

More Truth Than Poetry

AN UNTASTED PLEASURE

By S. E. KISER

I WISH that I could worry and get mad
At people who would like to change conditions;
I'm sorry that it doesn't make me sad
When scorn is shown for men in high positions;
I wish that I could gnash my teeth and rage,
Believing every Socialist should rot
Within the grating of an iron cage,
Or else be taken out somewhere and shot.

THE other day I heard a fat man roar
About the foolishness of toleration;
I never had quite understood before,
Mine being but a meagre education.
The fat man's jowls turned purple while he spoke,
He shook his fat fists and he stamped his feet;
It seemed as if he'd burst a vein or choke,
To listen was a privilege, a treat.

"THERE'S too much talk about the profiteers
By fools who think they're bein' wise or funny;
There's hardly anything a person hears
But slurs about us people that have money.
We gotta stop it! Talk is far too free;
It's time to call a halt and make it loud;
Us who are runnin' things, it seems to me,
Have been too easy with the screechin' crowd."

IT seemed to make him glad to free his mind,
His system doubtless craved the sweet reaction;
I often wish that I knew how to find
Such soothing, satisfying satisfaction;
I wish that I could worry and refuse
To sympathize with overburdened men;
I often wish I had so much to lose
That I'd be feeling nervous, now and then.

DEAR K. C. B.
I READ your article.
ABOUT THE woman.
WHO HAD dogs for pets.
AND SEEM to waste.
THE LOVE that should go.
TO LITTLE children.
AND OF course it's a shame.
IF ANY such person.
SHOULD PAMPER a dog.
AND NEGLECT their babies.
AND SPEND their money.
ON COMFORTS for dogs.
WHILE MANY poor children.
WHOM THEY could help.
NEED MILK and clothes.
BUT ANYONE.
WHO TRULY loves children.
MUST HAVE in his heart.
A LOVE for dogs.
AND AS one child.
IS LOVED none the less.
WHEN THE others come.
SO ANY true parent.
IS A better parent.
FOR LOVING all creatures.
WE ONCE had a dog.
A LITTLE pug dog.
NAMED "SCIPIO."
AND I am sure.
THAT FATHER and mother.
AND ALL five children.
LOVED EACH other better.
FOR LOVING him.
AND WHEN he died.
WE THINK some fiend.
IN HUMAN form.
POISONED SCIPIO.
AND IF this is true.
I THINK the world.
WAS BETTER off.
THAT SCIPIO lived.
THAN THAT he lived.
WHO POISONED him.
AND I can recall.
WHEN I wrapped him up.
IN THE little blanket.
THAT SISTER made.
WITH LOVING hands.
AND LAID him away.
IN HIS little grave.
THAT I had dug.
AND COVERED him up.
THAT MAN that I am.
I CRIED real tears.
FOR MY little friend.
AND AMONG the photos.
THAT OUR family has.
THERE WILL always be prized,
THE PICTURE of Scipio,
LOOKING up.
WITH EAGER eyes.
FOR CANDY or ball.
AND IF your column.
THAT TOUCHED me so.
SHOULD LEAD anyone.
THE BETTER to love.
AND TO understand
OUR CANINE friends.
WITHOUT DIMINUTION.
OF THE love we owe.
TO HUMANITY.
THEN I want to say.
THAT WE all should say.

I THANK you.

STINGINESS IS OUT OF PLACE IN LOVE

By Winifred Black

HE'S good-looking and a good dresser. He can sing; he can tell rather a good story in rather a good way; he has a position which isn't so bad as positions go, and some day he will be a rather prosperous man.

She's in love with him and has been engaged to him for a year—but all her friends hate the sight of him. They say he is selfish and cold-hearted and scheming and stingy.

The girl says, herself, that in all this time she's been engaged to him he has never given her even a bunch of flowers. He doesn't believe in what we call "such Tomfoolishness." They go to the movies once or twice a week and enjoy them together, but he never asks her to have even a glass of soda after the movie, and he has never given her a box of candy in his life.

Well, my dear girl, I wouldn't mind so much about his not buying you candy. I wouldn't even be too mad at him for not buying you a posy now and then. The woman he marries will probably have a limousine and a sable coat some day—when he gets good and ready to buy it for her—while the girl who marries the generous young fellow, who's always bringing her something pretty or something nice, will probably have to make over her dresses. But that about "never going crazy about any girl"—I don't care for that very much, and his idea that he mustn't show that he cares for the girl he's asked to be his wife —somehow, that doesn't appeal to me, either.

I'd rather marry a light-hearted fool, without a cent to his name, and take my chances at finding something to laugh at anyhow, when I slipped my hand into his and wandered through the world to seek my fortune.

Letters to the Editor

Navy Pay

Editor Boston American:

There are several bills pending in Congress regarding an increase in pay of the enlisted personnel, as well as the officers of the navy.

There were 4,666 desertions in the last six months of 1919, and thus far this year they have averaged 700 a month, many of the deserters being petty officers of years of experience. The only increase in naval pay in years is the war increase of eight dollars (and lower for the higher rates) and the family allowance for married men, which, I understand, will be discontinued when peace has been declared.

The danger, if relief is not given soon, not only lies in the fact that the navy cannot compete with civil occupations; the great danger of these times is discontent, and that it does exist is evidenced by the number of desertions. Our first line of defence cannot be too good, and there is such a thing as it not being good enough.

H. L. ARNOLD.

Hearst Weapons

Editor Boston American:

The greatest American institution is the Hearst newspapers, which, like Hearst, are 100 per cent. American. Therefore, they are naturally anti-British; for we well know a "real" American says "America first." Some day children in our schools will be asked who defeated British interests in our American ships? and they will in a chorus answer, William Randolph Hearst. Now that the American beat the British in the "ship deal," let it beat the British candidate for our President, Hoover.

M. FITZGERALD.

For Johnson.

Editor Boston American:

Any American with red blood in his veins and a brain to think with should know that Senator Johnson is right on the League of Nations question, and an American of Americans; and that is what we need at this time. I voted for him for Vice-President, and wish I could again for President.

One Strike Lesson
Government Ownership
The Greatest Business
Judging Women

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1920.)

Not forever will the people of the United States be content to leave to accident or to quarrels of workers and employers the possibility of getting to and from their homes and their work, their supplies of food and other important matters.

A nation intelligent enough to create the greatest nation and greatest railroad system in the world ought to know how to run this nation and railroads.

When a railroad is to be built it is built in accordance with engineering rules, under agreements and contracts that are binding.

When a man goes to the railroad station he has to pay a certain amount, and he pays it.

Owners and workers should also be bound by rules and agreements in their dealings with each other.

In the days when there were one hundred men for ninety jobs, the employers took advantage of the condition. They used to play the idle men against the busy men, to the employers' advantage.

Today there are a hundred jobs for every ninety men, in some cases two jobs for each man. The men, like the employers, take what advantage they can of that and play one employer looking for workmen against another employer, playing the game as the employers used to do.

In all these transactions, when strikes result the public is buffeted between the opposing parties.

Some better plan will be found unless the people back intelligence to run the country that they have established.

One thing is quite certain. The simplest, probably the only satisfactory solution for the transportation problem, is government ownership.

Now, the fact that any trains are moving, is due to government ownership, that is to say, to the postoffice, for the government-owned mails move.

Under government ownership, as the men have learned, they are treated fairly. Eventually, no doubt, the government would manage the railroads at least as well as it does its postoffice. It would get rid of managers whose principal job under government control was to make a failure in order to bring the roads back to private ownership.

The present strike will be settled in due time, of course. It is not so much a strike of employes against railroads as it is a strike of dissatisfied union men against union leaders. But no matter what the cause, it is always a strike against the public, which can't help itself.

What is the most important business in the world? Mrs. C. A. Bisbee of Aurora, Illinois, answered the question when the local Chamber of Commerce, working "for a better Aurora," asked what her business was and what she was doing to make the city better? "Raising babies," she answered. "You can make Aurora better by making it a clean city in every respect."

All boy babies were once born little savages, with jaws protruding and with cannibal instincts. Mothers have changed that gradually with patient effort through five hundred thousand years. That should be remembered by gentlemen with red faces that occasionally denounce the growing influence of women in public affairs.

Educating them is the next most important business.

Supplying food from the earth to feed them is the next in importance.

Yet government does less for mothers, teachers and farmers than for any other three classes of the population.

When a State rejects woman suffrage it announces that its women are not fit to vote. Of course, it has no right to judge of women in other States.

You would say offhand that each State is the best judge of its own women, that when a State declares its women are of a kind to be permanently classed with idiots, children and Indians, it knows what it is talking about.

But that does not necessarily follow, for the decision against women comes from men, professional politicians at that. And no body of women should be condemned on judgment of that kind. The decisions against woman suffrage prove that many masculine legislators are unfit to be lawmakers, and proves nothing else.
